Congress Fight Over Taxation Is Indicated in Coming Session

Some Ask Repeal Of Undistributed Profits Levy

L A W ASSAILED

Proposed Incentive Tax Also Opposed at Hearings

Washington —(AP)—Demands of some business men for complete repeal of the undistributed profits levy increased today the signs of a new congressional battle over taxation.

Several industrialists have testified before a senate committee investigating profit-sharing plans and incentive taxation that removal of the undistributed profits levy would wipe out a "fear psychology" on the part of business and spur industrial expansion.

Observing that he had found widespread fear of punitive taxation still exists among business men, Senator Van Nuys (D-Ind.) said he would urge that congress remove entirely this tax, emasculated in the 1938 revenue act which the president permitted to become law without his signature.

The tax, placed on earnings which are not distributed by corporations to their stockholders, was reduced from a maximum penalty of 27 percent to 24 percent by the last congress. President Roosevelt made known his intention of asking the next congress to restore the higher levies.

Norris Backs Roosevelt

Senator Norris (I-Nebr.), an administration adherent, said if the president requests revitalization of the tax he will actively support it. Norris pointed out the levy had been conceived originally to prevent tax evasion by individuals who formed corporations for that sole purpose and insisted that reason alone would be justification for its continuance.

He said he also was opposed to the principle of giving tax reductions to corporations to encourage industrial plant expansion and equipment purchases, unless similar reductions were given to individuals.

Proposals of this nature have been discussed before the committee. Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), a member, indicated he planned to recommend to the senate finance committee some amendments to the revenue act which would put incentive taxation into effect.

Sharp criticism of the undistributed profits levy came yesterday from Lohrtey, Hagerstown, Ind., piston ring manufacturer.

Charges Spies are 'Serious Menace'

House Committee Hears Testimony of Its Investigator

Washington —(AP)—The house committee investigating un-Americanism was told today that the spy situation in the United States constitutes "a very serious menace."

John C. Metcalfe, committee investigator, who spent six months checking up on activities of subversive organizations, told the committee the real aim of the American nazi movement is to build up in the United States a spy organization, a potential sabotage machine and a German minority.

Similar efforts are being made in South America, Metcalfe said. George E. Sullivan, a Catholic attorney and author of this city, presented to the committee a 12-point program for combatting un-American activities. He proposed first that the congress appropriate "ample funds" for continuation of the committee's work.

The committee, meanwhile, began drafting its report to congress which informed persons said would contain specific suggestions for eliminating "subversive activities."

PUFF IN PEACE

A man who had smoked a pipe since his eighth year (not the same pipe) died the other day at the ripe old age of 105 years, in Ontario, Canada. So that's proof that a good pipe is good for man's health and happiness, even if unrelenting tyranny compels him to do his puffing on the front porch in mid-winter. There being no demand for good though used pipes and "baccy," they are not listed in The Post-Crescent classified want-ads. This one brought satisfaction.

BREAKS WITH CIO

Washington —(AP)—Francis J. Gorman, president of the United Textile Workers, called on the 700 locals of the union today to "salvage our organization from internal strife."

Breaking with CIO officials over their policies of organizing the textile industry's 1,300,000 workers, Gorman said all ties of his union with the CIO had been severed by a Rhode Island court decision.

He denounced the policies of the Textile Workers Organizing Committee (CIO) and disclosed he had become a member of the A. F. of L., indicating he would try to lead out of the CIO the 450,000 members the T. W. O. C. claims.

Large Investment Firm Is Facing Federal Charges

Complaint by Securities Commission Alleges Fraudulent Practices

Washington —(AP)—The securities commission announced today it had filed a bill of complaint charging Fidelity Investment association, a company which it said had sold $600,000,000 in securities to the public, with fraudulent practices.

The complaint, which was filed in federal district court for the Eastern district of Michigan, asked that the company be enjoined from selling securities in violation of federal and state laws.

Carmi A. Thompson of Cleveland, president of the association and a former treasurer of the United States, commented on the announcement that "our company is supervised by the various state agencies where we do business, and we have enjoyed a tremendous growth within the last few years."

"We are not registered under the SEC," Thompson said, "but this agency has nevertheless been investigating us along with practically all other investment concerns and I presume have concluded that they should in some measure regulate our activities."

The company has 58 district offices in leading cities throughout the country. The main office is in Wheeling, W. Va. The company is an investment loan association.

Cities in which the company maintained district offices included: Aurora, Ill.; Chicago, Green Bay, Wis.; Indianapolis, LaCrosse, Wis.; Milwaukee, Peoria, Ill.; Racine, Wis.; Savanna, Ill.; Sheboygan, Wis.; and St. Louis, Mo.

NO LOSS IN STATE

Madison —(AP)—Gregory Buzenli, acting director of the Wisconsin securities division, said today his department has been investigating operations of the Fidelity Investment association since Oct. 20.

On Aug. 30, 1938, Buzenli said, the association had contracts in Wisconsin calling for payment of $25,700,000 over a period of several years, and these contracts had a cash value or amount paid in by installment purchasers of $2,000,075 on Oct. 1.

Wisconsin investors, he added, are fully protected against any possible loss because the association is required to deposit with the state treasurer bonds equal to 110 percent of the cash value of the contracts. The amount of the bonds is adjusted monthly.

Detroit —(AP)—Federal Judge Edward J. Moineau today ordered the Fidelity Investment association, charged by the securities and exchange commission with engaging in a scheme to defraud investors, to show cause by 10 a. m. next Monday why the firm should not be enjoined from using the mails or engaging in interstate commerce.

The order was issued on petition of John T. Callahan, assistant general counsel for the SEC, and Edward C. Jaegerman, SEC attorney.

Reich Jewish Veterans Face Slash in Income

Berlin —(AP)—Drastic curtailment in the income of the large group of German Jewish World war veterans were ordered today, effective Jan. 1.

Interior Minister Wilhelm Frick and Rudolf Hess, Chancellor Hitler's deputy in Nazi party affairs, decreed that Jewish former government employees, who hitherto have been kept on the full pay roll even after they were removed from office, should receive only the pensions to which they are entitled under the German pension law.

Ruth Etting and Alderman Wed in Nevada After Aerial Journey From Los Angeles

Las Vegas, Nev. —(AP)—In a swift-moving accompaniment to the trial in Los Angeles of her former husband, Martin Snyder, for attempted murder, Miss Ruth Etting was married here today to Myrl Alderman, the former pianist whom Snyder is accused of shooting.

The ceremony took place in the chambers of Judge William Orr, a few minutes after 11 o'clock C. S. T. Immediately after the ceremony the party left for the airport to return to Los Angeles in their chartered plane.

The Rev. C. H. Sloan, who had been called to the courthouse a half hour before, performed the ceremony.

Witnesses of the marriage were Miss Edith Snyder, daughter of Miss Etting's former husband by a previous marriage; Bernard Cohen, the bride's attorney, and Nick Castro and Walter Quinton.

Arouse County Clerk

Lloyd Payne, the county clerk, was aroused from bed when the party arrived by plane at 9:30 a. m. and applied for a license.

The bride was attired in a blue hat and veil and a blue print dress, trimmed in red. Alderman wore a business suit.

Miss Etting gave her age as 37, residence Los Angeles and recorded a divorce granted in Chicago Nov. 30, 1937. Alderman gave his age as 30 and said he was divorced in Los Angeles a year ago.

Low-hanging clouds that brought southern California its first rain of the season did not deter the couple as they sped away from Los Angeles with three others before dawn.

The singer and Alderman telephoned Deputy District Attorney Eugene U. Black, who is prosecuting Miss Etting's former husband, to inform him of their plans and to explain their contemplated absence from the courtroom today.

The move added a new tangle in the now sensational case. Miss Etting was quoted by police after the shooting of Alderman last Oct. 15, that they were married. This she denied later when the Los Angeles county grand jury indicted Snyder.

Warrant Names Alleged Slayer

New Lisbon Man Is Sought In Killing of Insurance Salesman

Mauston, Wis. —(AP)—Charles Waterman, 33, of New Lisbon, named in a first degree murder warrant, was sought by deputies today in the slaying of Charles J. Koehn, 64-year-old New Lisbon insurance salesman.

County Judge Robert Clark issued the warrant late yesterday. Authorities were unable to locate Waterman at his home.

Issuance of the warrant followed Koehn's death in a local hospital of a bullet wound in the face and a fractured skull received when he was beaten over the head with a 22 caliber pistol during what authorities believed was an attempted robbery Monday night.

Waterman was a former boarder at the Koehn home. District Attorney Charles Curran said that Koehn, just prior to his death, had given him valuable clues concerning his assailant.

Bloodhounds followed a trail yesterday for about a mile from the place where Koehn was found by two farmers who heard his cries for help. The dogs lost the trail where the slayer apparently entered an automobile, Sheriff Preston McEvoy said.

The farmers said there was a man at the scene when they arrived, but that he disappeared while they were aiding the assault victim.

Around Koehn's automobile, which was parked beside the road, there were signs a bitter struggle had taken place. A 22 caliber pistol lay on the highway, apparently dropped by the slayer in his flight.

Youth Sentenced in Manslaughter Case

Milwaukee —(AP)—A municipal court jury today convicted William Erbs, 20, of Evansville, Wis., of fourth degree manslaughter, and Judge Max Nohl immediately sentenced him to serve one to two years in the Green Bay reformatory.

The jury of six men and six women deliberated an additional hour this morning after failing to reach a decision in three hours' deliberation yesterday.

The prosecution contended Erbs was intoxicated when his automobile crashed into a street car here Nov. 19. His companion Ardin Bliss, 23, of Milton, was killed in the accident, and Coroner Frank Schultz returned a finding of gross negligence against Erbs.

He was convicted late yesterday by a circuit court jury which deliberated two and a half hours. Judge James Wickham of Eau Claire will pronounce sentence within a few days.

Miss Erbs' body was found Nov. 27. A coroner's jury reported her death was caused by blows on the head and exposure.

Indian Faces Sentence In Reservation Death

Hayward, Wis. —(AP)—Isaac Crocodile, 29-year-old Couderay reservation Indian, today awaited sentence on a second degree murder charge in the death of Miss Mabel Crow, 28, also of the reservation.

He was convicted late yesterday by a circuit court jury which deliberated two and a half hours. Judge James Wickham of Eau Claire will pronounce sentence within a few days.

Miss Crow's body was found Nov. 27. A coroner's jury reported her death was caused by blows on the head and exposure.

German Guilty Of Espionage In Canal Zone

Convicted of Taking Pictures of Zone Fortifications

JURY OUT 2 HOURS

Three Others Facing Trial Later on Similar Charges

Cristobal, C. Z. —(AP)—Hans Heinrich Schackow, 26-year-old German steamship company employe, was found guilty today of photographing Canal Zone fortifications. It was the Canal Zone's first espionage case.

A federal court jury deliberated about two hours before reaching the verdict of guilty.

The German steamship company employe, charged with taking photographs of vital Canal Zone fortifications in October with three other young Germans, will be sentenced Dec. 22 when Judge Bunk Gardner is to hear a motion by defense counsel taking exception to the verdict and asking a new trial.

The trial of Ernest Robert Edward Kuhrig, 29, was set for Jan. 4. The other defendants, Ingeborg Waltrutt Gutman, 19-year-old girl secretary, and Gisbert Wilhelm Gross, 26, are to be tried later.

Took Several Pictures

All were arrested Oct. 18 at Ft. Randolph, which defends the Atlantic entrance to the Panama Canal.

During Schackow's trial military officials testified he took several pictures that would be useful to foreign governments.

Before the jury was the statement of defense counsel, C. P. Fairman, that "there is not a single construction or equipment for defensive purposes in the Canal Zone details of which is not now in possession of any foreign government desiring the information and willing to pay."

District Attorney Joseph J. McGuigan in his summation asserted Schackow, and three other young Germans arrested with him at Ft. Randolph and to be tried later, "passed easy-mark sentries and took pictures to be used against our country, naturally for the country of which they are natives and from whose consul they take advice."

Mrs. Lauer Pleads Not Guilty to Smuggling Charge in New York

New York —(AP)—Mrs. Elma N. Lauer, wife of Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer, today pleaded innocent in federal court to an indictment charging her with smuggling and conspiracy. Bail was fixed at $1,000 and the case set for Jan. 3.

Mrs. Lauer, who contended the case was inspired by a vengeful servant, entered her plea before Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard after Judge William Bondy disqualified himself because of his long friendship for Justice Lauer.

George Burns, film and radio actor, pleaded guilty Monday to a similar indictment. Several other prominent figures in the entertainment world had been questioned by treasury department agents and representatives of the United States attorney's office.

Explosion Threatens Subway Passengers

New York —(AP)—A misdirected blast in the new Sixth avenue subway excavation tore through the wall of an adjoining tube today and showered passengers on a Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit train with debris.

One passenger, Herman Bornstein was treated for shock and lacerations of the face.

The accident occurred at Thirty-second street and Broadway, where the new sixth avenue line converges with the B-M-T.

Three Sentenced for Stealing 25 Chickens

Stevens Point —(AP)—Individual sentences of one to three years in the state prison at Waupun were imposed by Circuit Judge Byron E. Park yesterday on Donald Behm, 23, and Edward Abbs, 28, of Oshkosh, and Arlin Krause, 21, of West Bloomfield, after they pleaded guilty to stealing 25 chickens from a town of Bloomfield farmer.

Good Fellows' Load Increased as WPA Lays Off Men: Hundreds Of Families Should Have Help

Something over thirty heads of families have been laid off by WPA in Appleton in the last few weeks and there is a probability that at least thirty more will be released very shortly. That will mean about sixty more families whose only source of income—small as it is or was—will have been removed and increases the load on the public and private relief and charitable organizations in Appleton.

It is for families such as these, for the families that cannot possibly be supported by WPA wages, for families who have no income at all, and for those who are depending upon perhaps $15 a month "children's aid" that the Good Fellows club is making its Christmas appeal. There are hundreds of these families in Appleton—many more

Attack on Tunisia Would be of 'Grave Concern' to Britain

Berlin Officials See Early Annexation of Memel

DIET MAY VOTE

Hitler Prepared to Act Quickly on Official Invitation

Berlin —(AP)—Berlin diplomatic quarters expressed the belief today that annexation of Memel territory by Adolf Hitler's greater Germany is but a matter of weeks.

Events were believed moving at such a fast pace that Hitler might be able to call the reichstag together Jan. 30—the sixth anniversary of his rise to power—to welcome 150,000 Memel Germans into the fatherland.

Diplomatic quarters felt that conditions had ripened within the 1,030 square miles of territory which Lithuania took from Germany after the World war for a decisive step late in January when the newly chosen Memel diet (parliament) meets.

It was believed that the almost unanimously German diet—elected Sunday on the issue of the people's avowal to Germany—would precipitate the issue by voting that Memel belongs to Germany.

Would Invite Hitler

In that fashion Hitler would be invited to step in, these quarters reasoned, on the basis that it was the will of the people of Memel.

The fuhrer has troops handy in the strongly-manned garrisons of Tilsit and Koenigsberg, in adjoining East Prussia, to take advantage of the invitation.

Such procedure, it was pointed out, would not be out of line with Hitler's declaration after the annexation of Sudetenland that the nazis had no further territorial claims in Europe.

The situation would be one in which Memel Nazis would plead with Hitler to come to them—a plea which he could hardly ignore if he remained true to his chosen role of "Protector of all Germans."

That is what happened in Austria as well as Sudetenland, and it worked to perfection in both cases.

Memel, Lithuania

—(AP)—Preliminary tabulation of Sunday's parliament election indicated today that Germans had gained but one seat from Lithuanians despite a strong "back to the reich" campaign which gave voting the flavor of a plebiscite on the question of rejoining Germany.

The first count showed German candidates won 25 out of the 29 diet seats. They had predicted they would win 26. In the last election Lithuanians won 5 seats and Germans 24.

Because of the complicated electoral procedure involved, final results will not be known until next weekend.

Michigan Slayer Is Found Insane

Attorneys to Fight Commitment to Michigan Hospital

Harrison, Mich. —(AP)—Carl "Jack" Livingston, acquitted of the murder of Isaiah Leebow on grounds he was insane when he fired the fatal shots last May 14, sought today to prove he now is sane. His attorneys left no doubt they would make every effort to save him from commitment to a state hospital for criminal insane.

Livingston, grinning broadly but restrained by his attorneys from attempting a "victory" speech in the courtroom after a jury had acquitted him last night, remained in jail.

Circuit Judge Ray Hart gave no intimation as to when he might rule on the defense plea that he amend the jury's verdict of "not guilty by reason of insanity" and make it read simply, "not guilty."

Charles H. Goggin, chief defense attorney, argued that "a person is entitled to a verdict of 'guilty' or 'not guilty,' and they can't hang any tails on it." He asserted the act of 1929 permitting special verdicts such as "by reason of insanity" was unworkable and unconstitutional.

The defense had made no denial that Livingston fired the shots in the spectacular Clare hotel tap room shooting that ended the life of Leebow, so-called "mystery man" of Michigan politics and oil baron.

Richard Widmann New Madison Fire Chief

Madison —(AP)—Richard Widmann, 54, was named chief of the Madison Fire Department by the board of police and fire commissioners last night to succeed John Lahm, who will be retired on pension Jan. 1.

Widmann, a former police officer, joined the fire department Oct. 13, 1917. He was named department inspector May 1, 1930, and on Oct. 1, 1936, was given the rank of lieutenant.

PLEADS INNOCENT

Albert N. Chaperau (above), "mystery man" of a smuggling scandal that has already involved such personages as Comedian George Burns and a judge's wife, pleaded innocent to the newest indictments against him in New York, despite the fact that Burns entered a guilty plea.

Callahan Seeks Big Increase in Education Fund

Wants $4,418,000 Boost In Appropriations for Next Biennium

Madison —(AP)—An increase of $4,418,000 in appropriations for educational purposes during the next biennium was requested today by John Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction at the budget hearings before Governor-elect Julius P. Heil.

Most of the increase was accounted for in proposed additional allowances of state aid for the common schools and the high schools.

Although Heil is bent upon a program of economy, Callahan asserted he felt it was his duty to point out the needs for improved educational facilities.

He said that since he has been in office the budget for public instruction has never shown any substantial increases and that the department is attempting to give "dollar for dollar" in services rendered.

For each year of the biennium starting next July 1 Callahan proposed a budget of approximately $10,371,000, as compared with $8,162,625 for the current fiscal year.

He requested that state aids for the elementary schools be increased from $5,200,000 to $5,500,000 annually and that aids for high schools be raised from $1,385,000 to $3,000,000 a year.

The state superintendent said he had been practicing economy in his department by dropping positions which could be eliminated. He stated he had dropped two persons engaged as supervisors of manual training and home economics and had dismissed two others who had been employed on standards and tests.

Ask Dismissal of Zimmerman Suit

Dammann's Attorneys Move to Quash Action In High Court

Madison —(AP)—The state supreme court had before it today a motion to dismiss the action by which Fred R. Zimmerman, secretary of state-elect seeks to block payment of the state's Civil war debt and the tax balance owed to the teachers' retirement fund.

The motion for dismissal was filed late yesterday by attorneys for Theodore Dammann, who will be succeeded by Zimmerman next month.

The supreme court is expected to hear arguments on the motion early next week.

The civil war debt amounts to $1,221,906 and the deficiency of income taxes due the teachers' retirement fund is $2,703,858. These are the only items in the $6,635,000 of allotments voted by the emergency board Nov. 16, which are now being contested.

Zimmerman's counsel filed an amended petition with the high court last Saturday charging the state books showed a deficit of $8,000,000 at the time the allotments were made. The amended petition said $23,000,000 was owed to the state highway fund and that the actual cash balance in the treasury was only $15,000,000.

In reply Dammann admitted the books credited the highway department with $23,000,000 but declared the general fund, out of which appropriations are paid, includes not only the current cash balance but all future anticipated revenues.

Chamberlain Makes Statement in House Of Commons

BRITONS ANGRY

Stirred by Nazi Rebuff in Refusing to Attend Dinner

Paris —(AP)—Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet announced today France had informed both Italy and Germany directly that she would never yield an inch of territory in response to fascist demands.

Bonnet's disclosure was made at a meeting of the chamber of deputies committee on foreign affairs where he was questioned on Italian demands for Tunisia and other Mediterranean lands.

Deputies quizzed Bonnet as saying he had told German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop of the French determination when the Nazi leader visited Paris last week to sign the French-German friendship accord.

London —(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain served notice in the house of commons today that any Italian aggression toward French Tunisia would be a "matter of grave concern" to the British government.

He made the statement in reply to a question whether "undertakings in respect of the status quo in the Mediterranean as embodied in the British-Italian agreement applied to Tunisia."

While he spoke, anger grew in parliamentary circles over an unusual Nazi rebuff last night when German diplomats and newspaper men boycotted a dinner at which Chamberlain spoke.

Simultaneously Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the German reichsbank, arrived in London for economic talks.

Chamberlain declared before commons: That "certainly" the status quo agreement applied to Tunisia.

"We cannot, however," Chamberlain added, "contemplate the possibility of such an attack as suggested in the question put by Mr. Arthur Henderson."

Henderson's Question

Henderson, a laborite, had asked whether, "in view of the fact that his majesty's government was a signatory of the 1923 convention affecting the British citizens in Tunis, and provisions of the Anglo-Italian agreements (put into force Nov. 16) safeguarding the status quo in the Mediterranean, his majesty's government will represent to the Italian government that aggression against Tunis will not find this country disinterested."

London diplomatic and political circles took a serious view of the German ambassador's boycott of Chamberlain's speech at a Foreign Press association dinner here last night, although German officials in Berlin professed not to be greatly disturbed by the incident.

Schacht Rebuffed

Dr. Schacht, however, had been in London only a few hours before he himself received an indirect rebuff from the executive committee of Earl Baldwin's fund for refugees.

In a statement the committee said it had no intention of discussing with him a reported plan for transferring funds it collected to Germany to facilitate the emigration of German Jews.

The labor party drafted a question to the house for explanation today of the absence of the German ambassador and Nazi press representatives from the Foreign Press association dinner.

This likely will be followed by lengthy review of British-German relations during full dress foreign affairs debate Monday.

Political quarters saw in the absence of the Germans a sign of official Nazi displeasure with the British.

Conciliator Trying To Settle Packing Workers' Walkout

New York —(AP)—John L. Conner, former conciliator of the labor department, arrived from Washington today to attempt to settle a strike of packing company workers, which threatens to tie up meat distribution in the metropolitan area.

Conner came here after the state board of mediation failed to effect an agreement between strike leaders and representatives of the "big four" packing companies—Wilson, Armour, Swift and Cudahy.

The federal conciliator said he would go to Chicago if his

Farm Research Laboratories in Four Major Zones

Peoria, Ill., Chosen for Northern Region, Wallace Announces

Washington.—Secretary Wallace announced today selection of Peoria, Ill., New Orleans, La., a point in the San Francisco bay area and one in the San Francisco bay area for location of the four $1,000,000 regional agricultural research laboratories.

The secretary said the locations were decided upon after a study of more than 200 towns and cities. The Peoria laboratory will serve the northern region; the one at New Orleans, the southern region; the one in the Philadelphia area, the eastern region; and the one in the San Francisco bay area, the western region.

Officials explained the designation of the Philadelphia area for the eastern region and the San Francisco bay area for the western region meant that the laboratories in those areas would be located within the general vicinity of the two cities.

Factors In Selections
Wallace said selection of the sites was based partly on the physical and scientific requirements of the work, partly on accessibility to the major farm producing areas and partly on the possibility of establishing relationships with the agricultural processing industries.

Plans for constructing the laboratories, he said, already were under way and work on all four would be started before the end of the fiscal year.

The laboratories, authorized by the last congress, will carry on work in research on agricultural commodities in an effort to discover "new uses" for surplus commodities.

Campaigns for location of the four laboratories started before the ink was dry on the 1938 farm act which ordered them established in an effort to discover "new uses" for surplus agricultural commodities.

Four "Major" Areas
The nation was broken up into four "major farm producing areas" and one laboratory was ordered established in each of the regions.

Experts went over the country, inspecting hundreds of sites in the south, the east, the north and the west.

The northern laboratory, which will do research work in corn, wheat and agricultural waste products, includes Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Sixteen states are included in the eastern area, where the research laboratory will work with tobacco, apples, Irish potatoes, milk products and vegetables in hope of finding new uses for these commodities.

The western laboratory will concentrate on fruits other than apples, Irish potatoes, wheat and alfalfa.

The department has $4,000,000 available to begin work on the four research stations. The farm act also contained an authorization of a $4,000,000 annual appropriation for these laboratories to carry on their work.

Dr. H. G. Knight, chief of the agriculture department's bureau of chemistry and soils, will be in charge of the four laboratories with supervision of chemistry in charge of Dr. Horace T. Herrick.

A director is to be named for each laboratory, probably Friday.

Possible new sources of revenue from agricultural products which were mentioned in research subjects included the manufacture of starch from potatoes, alcohol motor fuel from corn and highway surfacing from cotton.

Pfeif Resigns as U. W. Class Officer

Quits Because of Cloud Upon His Right to Junior Presidency

Madison.—Selection of a University of Wisconsin junior class president and prom chairman rested today with the student election board following the resignation of William J. Pfeif, of Schenectady, N. Y., whose election was challenged on the ground of fraud.

The logical choice of the board was William McCoy, of Fond du Lac, runner-up in the November election, whose supporters brought to the attention of student election referees charges that 16 illegal ballots were cast for Pfeif.

"The recent elections fraud, although totally unknown to me, has cast a cloud upon my right to the office of junior class president," Pfeif said.

He recommended that McCoy be named to the office.

The student life and interests committee, meanwhile, upheld a ruling of the election board penalizing a Shorewood youth with strict probation for the remainder of his undergraduate period. The youth confessed he changed enough ballots in favor of Pfeif to swing the election.

The election board was expected to act speedily to fill the office in order that no further time be lost on preparations for the junior prom, biggest social event of the student calendar, which will be held in February.

fitting were signs of painstaking workmanship.

The girls in the advanced sewing classes made wool dresses or suits for themselves. All were cut on basic lines and with a change of accessories might be worn for either evening or daytime wear. Weeks of preliminary planning were spent before the dresses were started and each girl thoroughly analyzed herself to select the most suitable color and pattern.

Miss Mildred Nickel, home art instructor, supervised all the sewing and planned the style show. Each class had its own representative to explain the styling of the garments to the audience. The narrators were Margaret Baumer, Helen Jane Melby, Cele Speel, Jeanette Baril, Esther Kallinen and Geraldine Unlaid, who told the cost of each garment and pointed out the unusual features. Music was furnished by a phonograph and broadcast over the loud speaker system.

Pfeif said, "Under the circumstances, I do not care to hold the office."

He recommended that McCoy be named to the office.

The student life and interests committee, meanwhile, upheld a ruling of the election board penalizing a Shorewood youth with strict probation for the remainder of his undergraduate period. The youth confessed he changed enough ballots in favor of Pfeif to swing the election.

The election board was expected to act speedily to fill the office in order that no further time be lost on preparations for the junior prom, biggest social event of the student calendar, which will be held in February.

New Governor Is Not Impressed by Commerce Board

Heil's Attitude Reveals Hostility to Ashe And His Work

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison.—The state capitol this week got a strong impression that Governor-elect Heil, the businessman executive, will require more argument to become convinced of the efficacy of the state department of commerce, created a year ago by the LaFollette administration and headed by William F. Ashe, former Kaukauna paper mill official.

From the discussions of Heil and Ashe at budget hearings this week, at which Ashe asked for a continuation of his $50,000 annual appropriation, it is apparent that the department head and the new governor differ greatly in their conceptions of the proper functions of the new state agency.

Heil, according to his remarks to Ashe, believes that a department created to help business and industry should advertise and promote the products of the state, as he put it, "to every state in the Union and to foreign countries."

Heil also believes that the department should bullyhoo the industrial advantages of Wisconsin in order to attract new manufacturing plants into the state.

Service Department
Ashe, however, conceives his job to be, he said, one which will render Wisconsin conditions so satisfactory that new business will move into the state without coaxing. His department is a service institution, to help solve the problems of existing industries, and to act as a spokesman for businessmen in the government, he asserted.

Heil appeared to be unconvinced. He wondered whether the board of directors which supervises Ashe's work are "yes men." Ashe listed the members, including some of the foremost business men in the state, and Herman L. Ekern, LaFollette party leader and recently defeated candidate for the United States senate.

Heil wondered why Ekern is a member of the board. Ekern, replied Ashe, is one of the best minds on the board. "Then they say he isn't a Progressive," Heil remarked of Ashe to the man next to him.

Ashe suggested that questions of partisanship should be divorced from consideration of the department of commerce budget. In reply to a question, he said he made a financial sacrifice in assuming his $7,000 position. The Thimpany Pulp and Paper company paid him more, he related.

Talk It Over
Although Heil said he would take the question of the $50,000 appropriation for the department "under advisement," and that he would "talk it over with the boys," those present noted a distinct feeling of hostility on the part of the new governor.

It was recalled that during Heil's campaign he repeatedly criticized the creation of the department of commerce, cited it as one of the questionable acts of the LaFollette administration which he set out to undo.

At various times, including stops in the Fox river valley, Heil criticized the appointment of Ashe, calling him a "playground director."

Ashe was formerly personnel manager for the Thimpany company, before that had various connections in industry, including a period as purchasing agent for the gigantic aluminum company of America. He also has had, however, experience as a recreational director, including a period as director of the city of Pittsburgh and as Lawrence college football coach some years ago.

Name Assistant At State Hospital
Madison.—(P)—Dr. Lester L. Weissmiller, of Albany, Wis., was named acting assistant superintendent of the Wisconsin State Hospital by the University of Wisconsin board of regents yesterday.

The one year appointment will become effective Jan. 1. Dr. Weissmiller will succeed Dr. Roger DeBusk, who resigned to become assistant director of St. Luke's hospital, New York City.

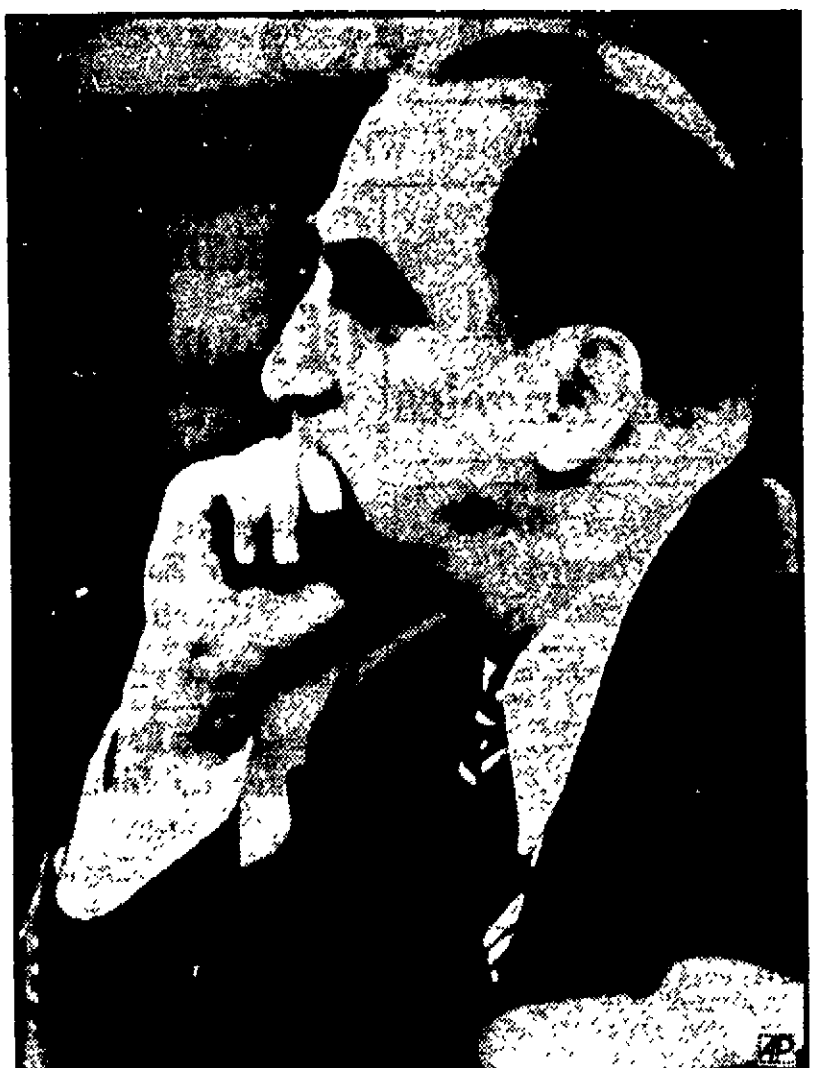

Dr. Weissmiller was graduated from the university in 1931, served his internship at the general hospital, and was on the student infirmary staff before becoming a general practitioner in Albany.

The regents granted a leave of absence for next semester to Professor Alfred Gausewitz of the law school. Prof. Gausewitz said he wanted to study and rest and would probably return for the summer session.

Several changes in county agriculture agents were approved by the board. They accepted the resignation of George M. O'Connor as agent of Crawford county and appointed Murray P. Pinkston to succeed him. Randall C. Swanson was transferred from Outagamie to Milwaukee county, succeeding Raymond B. Pallett, resigned. John F. Magnus was transferred from Ashland to Outagamie county. Leroy Reese was re-appointed agent of LaFayette county.

Democrats Poll 49 Per Cent Of Congress Votes as Rival Party Chalks Up 47.8 Per Cent

Washington.—(P)—A countrywide compilation showed today that Democrats polled 49 per cent of the vote for members of the house of representatives in the Nov. 8 election. Republicans received 47.3 per cent, and minor party candidates 2.2 per cent.

The Democratic figures fell from 60.2 per cent of the party's presidential vote in 1936 and 53.4 per cent of the vote for representatives in 1934.

The tabulation, compiled principally from officially certified returns, showed the 1938 vote for representatives aggregated 35,815,720. This was the largest ever recorded in an off-year election. Democratic candidates received 17,559,081 votes, Republicans 17,129,557, and other candidates 1,127,082.

Republicans achieved their greatest gains in the east and mid-west, polling 51 per cent of the vote in both sections. In 1936, they received only 40.4 per cent of the presidential vote in the east, and in 1934 they polled 43.4 per cent of the vote for representatives.

In the midwest, the party received only 38.4 per cent of the 1936 vote and 43.3 per cent of the 1934 vote.

Western Vote
Democrats maintained pluralities in the west, with 51.9 per cent of the total vote, and in the south, with 77.3 per cent.

In 1936 the Democrats received 66.0 per cent of the western vote against 54 per cent in 1934. The party's 1938 percentage in the south compared with 73.4 per cent in 1936 and 77 per cent in 1934. The latter figures reflected the usual Republican voting decline in the south in off-years.

Republicans polled 44.2 per cent of the total vote in Wisconsin in the Nov. 8 election for members of the house of representatives, a compilation of figures revealed today. Democrats polled 48.2 per cent, Progressives 36.2 and other parties 1.4 per cent.

The total 1938 Wisconsin vote for members of the house was 895,487. Republicans polled 385,507, Democrats 162,988, and Progressives 223,749.

In 1934 the total vote was 885,874. That year Democrats received 280,387 votes, or 31.7 per cent. Republicans 215,605, or 24.3 per cent, and Progressives 334,345 or 37.7 per cent.

Chinese Claim They Have Captured Sitang
Shanghai.—(P)—The Chinese reported today they had recaptured the village of Sitang, 20 miles southeast of Yochow, straightening their lines through the mountains from Tungting lake to the southern tip of Hupeh province, 100 miles southwest of Hankow.

The Chinese have reported steady progress on this central China front ever since they started their counter-offensive several weeks ago to drive the Japanese from Hunan province.

May Ask Congress To Limit Rights In Use of Patents

Federal Committee Hears Of Practices in Motor, Glass Industry

Washington.—(P)—The federal monopoly committee ultimately may recommend to congress that corporations be given only limited rights in the use of patents.

Information to support such a recommendation has been developed in the committee's inquiries into the automobile and glass container industries. Comments of members also indicated today that it is a subject of primary consideration.

Discussing the current glass container investigation, Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), chairman of the committee, said:

"The important question is, to what extent is it beneficial to the whole public to allow one artificial group to accumulate patents over an industry?"

"This testimony suggests to my mind the desirability of considering whether any regulation should be developed to supervise group patenting as distinguished from patents obtained and controlled by individual inventors."

In two days the committee heard its testimony that the industry is dominated by the Hartford-Empire company, which controls a large block of basic patents and which licenses under them manufacturers producing 67.4 per cent of the country's glass containers.

All except about three per cent of the remainder is produced by the Owens-Illinois Glass company and its subsidiaries, six of which use some Hartford machines.

Levis Explains
William E. Levis, Owens-Illinois president, told the committee yesterday that his company was interested in obtaining patents only to prevent exploitation of its own inventions.

Unlike the Hartford company, which exists on royalties from manufacturers for its machines, Levis said his company is interested only in revenue from manufacturing and obtains patents on devices it develops only to prevent some one else from patenting them.

This prompted Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general, to remark that such an attitude toward patents was characteristic of men actually engaged in manufacturing.

Hugh Cox, justice department counsel for the patents inquiry, asked Levis repeatedly whether his directors or directors held by his friends had influenced competition between those companies and Owens-Illinois. Levis consistently denied that it had.

Report Concentration Of Japanese Troops
Hongkong.—(P)—Belief that the Japanese were preparing for a large-scale military campaign to the west and north of Canton was strengthened today by reports of heavy troop and supply concentrations in the south China metropolis.

Just how many troops were in Canton was not known. Domei (Japanese news agency) quoted the Japanese commander yesterday as saying 300,000 men were assembled there, while the best available information from neutral sources placed the Japanese strength in south China at about 120,000.

Dispatches from Chungking, China's provisional capital, meanwhile, quoted Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek as stating that China was more confident of ultimate victory now than at any time since the war started.

Ruth also served as temporary receiver of the Kim-Murphy company. He said that while warehouse receipts were out for 7,150 100-pound bags of beans, he found only 1,033 bags in Michigan warehouses when he took charge. He quoted Kimball as telling him he had to sell pledged beans to make up losses on checks Continental had given the company in return for notes.

Went Into Receivership
A few days later the Continental corporation went into receivership, with Ruth the receiver.

He testified he first learned of the duplications when he checked holdings of the Citizens National Bank of Marietta, O., and found the collateral the corporation had issued to the bank was $7,000 short.

He resigned immediately, he told the jury, and informed the elder Moore he would reveal the shortage if it was not made up by the next afternoon.

Moore said it was "only a drop in the bucket" and that the company had plenty of money," the former salesman testified.

E. B. Strecker, president of the Marietta bank, said on the witness stand Monday the bank had lost more than $86,000 on Continental paper.

Committee Is Facing Problem Of What to Do About Patents

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—How and where are you going to draw a line between rewarding an inventor for his idea and preventing the patent on it from being used in a way that produces undesirable economic effects. That is the question upon which the O'Mahoney economic investigating committee is seeking light this week in its study of the glass container or bottle industry. This industry is used as a case illustration of conditions found in others.

The committee is not looking for a law violator. In fact, one member, after hearing some of the glass testimony, said he doubted if anything mentioned transgressed the law and that the same practices were common in other industries. Yet the committee was given a picture of a huge and vital industry, tightly controlled, in which it is actually impossible for new competitors to enter the field without the consent of the two dominant patent-controlling groups.

In the manufacture of milk bottles, fruit jars, and all kinds of glass containers, only 4 per cent of the production comes from independent makers—there are three. The other 96 per cent is produced either by the Owens-Illinois company, or by licensees of the Hartford-Empire company, which is a concern primarily engaged in owning glass making patents and in licensing them under controlled conditions, leasing the essential machinery to manufacturers on a royalty basis.

You probably never heard of the Hartford-Empire company before, yet the milk bottles which are opened in every kitchen in the land each morning are made only subject to the permission of this company.

Hartford Has Control Of Over 700 Patents

A Delaware corporation, the Hartford-Empire's headquarters are at Hartford, Conn. Its chief property consists in 717 patents mostly glass making, and royalties from these patents provide 90 per cent of the company's income. It has an experimental plant for research but makes no glass for sale. It makes no machinery but hires other concerns to manufacture glass-making machines which it rents never sells, to container producers. Its assets total $11,000,000.

Only one other concern owns practicable glass container making patents—the Owens-Illinois—and that concern has not issued a license to anyone since 1914. Therefore, for nearly 25 years, anyone who wanted to manufacture glass bottles has had, as a practical matter, to depend upon being able to rent licensed machinery from Hartford-Empire.

Officials of the company use their discretion as to the licensing of new competitors and for some years have discouraged any expansion of glass-container manufacturing capacity.

"You have been operating a kind of AAA for the glass industry," observed Chairman O'Mahoney dryly. By patent control, it was possible to do what farmers couldn't do—curtail production to fit demand.

Corporation Has Thumb On Household Necessity

So out of the patent privilege which is granted to the investor, there grows up, in an entirely legal way it may be granted, a large corporation which exercised remote control over the manufacture of articles which, under our standard of living, have become household necessities. There has been built, in the manufacture of milk bottles, medicine bottles, fruit and vegetable jars, what Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold calls an "economic toll bridge" to which everyone must pay tribute.

In addition, these patent holding companies sometimes buy up patents and suppress them, refusing to permit anyone to put them into production. The patent privilege, granted in order to encourage the useful arts, becomes the means of suppressing developments.

These two problems—the control of industry and competition through patent licensing, and the suppression of inventions—are recognized as needing attention. Yet the committee members likewise recognize the necessity of protecting the inventor so that he may obtain the reward of his work, and in whatever is proposed that need will be recognized.

Choice Is to Fight Or Bow to Hitler, Leon Bouton Says

Nazi Chief Could Have Been Stopped at Rhineland, Students Told

War or submission to Hitler is the gloomy alternative for the democratic, civilized nations of the world, Leon Bouton, for more than 23 years an American newspaper correspondent in Europe, prophesied Tuesday morning at Lawrence Memorial chapel in an address on "What's Behind the News in Europe?"

Speaking at a Lawrence college convocation, he declared that the democratic countries had given Hitler encouragement even before he came to power in 1933 and had continued to do so ever since. Hitler, he said, saw Japan in Manchuria in 1931, heard the world renege and do nothing. Today Manchuria is Manchukuo, a Japanese province.

When Hitler came to power, Mr. Bouton continued, he speeded up rearmament, wiped out the internationalization of the main German rivers and marched into the Rhineland. The French general staff wanted to mobilize on the frontier, but the government was afraid and forbade it.

And yet the German officers, Mr. Bouton disclosed, had in their pockets orders to withdraw from the territory if France did mobilize on the frontier. Hitler could have been stopped then, he said, without bloodshed.

Met No Opposition

Hitler was encouraged again, the speaker went on, when after he had promised five times to uphold the independence of Austria, he went into the country and not a finger was raised against him; when he saw the half-hearted sanctions imposed upon Italy in the Ethiopian crisis; and when he saw the democratic countries of the world refuse any support to the legally elected government of Spain.

Turning to the recent partition of Czechoslovakia, Mr. Bouton said Hitler knew that Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain would give in, that France was bluffing all these years. He knows he can't fight Great Britain."

"Mr. Chamberlain went to Germany carrying an umbrella to negotiate with men who carry swords. That's the whole story in a nutshell," Bouton declared.

Colossal Stupidity

He called the Munich conference a colossal stupidity, especially on the part of the British government. It was, he said, an extraordinary spectacle—the meeting of four powers deciding how to break up a fifth, which was not represented. Hitler presented his demands, and France and England recommended the adoption of those demands.

"It looked as if war was imminent," the speaker said. "But as a matter of fact there wouldn't have been a war. Mussolini has been bluffing all these years. He knows he can't fight Great Britain."

Today, he went on, the Japanese are flouting British interests in the east and eyeing the rich Dutch East Indies. The Germans are building guns all around Gibraltar, France is reduced almost to a second-rate power and Great Britain is harassed by riots in Palestine, fomented by Italy and Germany.

"We, the democratic, civilized nations, shall eventually be compelled to ally ourselves with Soviet Russia to stop the aggressions of Hitler," Bouton declared. "Mark that down and call me a bad prophet if it doesn't come true."

Join A Lesser Devil

He explained that he had no more sympathy with communism than he had with fascism and that, to choose between the Russian Soviet form of government and the German Nazi form was like choosing whether to be hanged or shot. But there are occasions when one must join a lesser devil to overcome a big one, he said, and the lesser one can be attended to when the other has been taken care of.

Germany, he continued, has gone Prussian. It has all the familiar Prussian aspirations, and believes that Germany has a mission to conquer the world and elevate it to the heights of German culture. Militarism is its soul.

Pleading for freedom of the press, Mr. Bouton said it was the greatest defense of human rights. No dictator, he asserted, can curtail a free press three years and the first thing a dictator does when he comes to power is to muzzle the press.

Chicago Chemist Will Address Society Here

I. R. McCall, of the Farwell Metallurgical corporation of Chicago, will be the speaker at a meeting of the American Chemical Society, Thursday night, at 8 o'clock, at the Lawrence college hall on the Lawrence college campus.

McCall's topic will be "Fertilizers and the Chemical Industry." Slides and a chemical display will be shown.

Poultry Fair tonight, Foster's Tavern, Dorboy Road.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

The Peace Between Business and the New Deal

So many earlier efforts to make peace between industry and the New Deal have come to nothing that it is only reasonable to ask whether the many fine words and gestures of the past ten days are to be taken seriously. There have been striking declarations and overtures by the National Association of Manufacturers speaking for industry, and by the Temporary National Economic Committee speaking for Congress and the Administration, and the question is whether all this reflects a decisive change among business men and politicians, or whether it is merely artificial and wishful.

Time alone can, of course, supply the whole answer to this question. But there are, I believe, reasons for thinking that the present peace movement is more likely to prove the real thing than any which preceded it.

For wars do come to an end though in the heat of battle the warriors can scarcely believe it. My reason for thinking that the war between industry and the New Deal has come to its end is that the issues of that war have been decided. That may sound like a strange thing to say in view of the fact that there are so many serious problems that are unsettled, so many measures that are still the subject of sharp dispute. But I submit that the battle has never in essence been about the New Deal measures in the abstract; the fighting issues in the political warfare of the past six years have been issues of power.

And it is these issues that have, I think, for the time being, been decided.

Power From Three Sources of Discontent

No matter what individual New Dealers may have said or thought or dreamed about in the past six years, the energy which gave life to the New Deal as a political movement has come from three main sources of popular discontent.

The first was the discontent of the farmers demanding equality of treatment with industry, and, whatever one is to think of the farm programs as such, the fact remains that agriculture has won a kind of consideration from the national government which it has not had for fifty years. The farm problem will be with us, no doubt, for generations, but the equality of agriculture with industry is now acknowledged by both political parties. In this sense the issue of power has been decided.

The second source of the New Deal's energy was the discontent of the industrial workers with the refusal of most of the great mass-production industries to permit collective bargaining, and thus to recognize a right which workers throughout the world have come to regard as necessary to their protection and essential to their dignity as human beings.

Whatever one may think of the Wagner act—and I, for one, think it

Teacher Resigns to Accept New Position

Clintonville — The board of education on Monday accepted the resignation of Merrill Thiede, teacher of the eighth grade of the public school here for the last two years. After concluding his teaching duties here Wednesday, he will leave for Eau Claire to assume his new position with the Standard Oil company on Thursday, Dec. 15. The position at Eau Claire was formerly held by his twin brother, Harold, who died during the last year.

The vacancy here will be filled by Mrs. Herbert Bovee until the Christmas vacation, which begins Dec. 23. The board of education is meanwhile considering applicants for the teaching position.

Merrill Thiede was at Abrams, Wis., Tuesday, where he attended the funeral of his grandfather.

The L. C. club met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Clara Lang on S. Main street. A supper speeches of the New Dealers when they were intoxicated with unaccustomed power. But I believe that I am reporting accurately when I say that in the minds of the New Dealers themselves there is in process a change in their fundamental prejudices—from a prejudice against business as such to a prejudice which makes them wish free business to flourish. And if that is true, if the emotional attitude is in fact altered, the chances of peace must at long last be much better.

Lawrence Praises Purpose of Visit By Anthony Eden

Unofficial Envoy Expresses England's Belief in Democracy

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Face to face with Anthony Eden, as splendid an ambassador as Great Britain could have sent to America in these critical times, President Roosevelt heard the viewpoint of the man who has been warning the world that the democracies must be on the alert against the encroachments of dictatorship countries.

Mr. Eden also made a talk to the Washington correspondents. It was an off-the-record address, delivered informally and without the restraints of a prepared address, but the public knows his views because they were comprehensively expressed before the National Association of Manufacturers.

It is not the specific phrases of a speech, but the spirit of the man, his earnestness, his sincerity, his forthright presentation of the viewpoint of his countrymen which leaves an unforgettable impression. Contrary to what may have been expected in some quarters, there is nothing in the Eden visit to which the German people or even the German government should particularly object, unless it be the fact of the visit itself, which is a symbol of friendship between the two outstanding democracies of the English-speaking world.

Simple Conviction
Mr. Eden did not need to ask America for help. He did not need to seek in devious ways to entangle us. He did not need to suggest any formula of policy for the two nations to follow. He needed only to express, as he did in New York and doubtless here to the president and the other officials of the American government, the simple conviction that England believes in democracy and does not believe in fascism or communism. If England believes in these things still, certainly America must defend those ideals before the whole world, so must America do likewise. In fact, the United States, through Secretary of State Hull, is at this very moment defending those ideals in a conference of Pan-American nations at Lima, Peru.

How can the ideals of democracy be defended? By war? Certainly there has not been anything said during Mr. Eden's conferences with government officials which affords a basis for such a program of joint action. Quite the contrary, Mr. Eden undoubtedly feels that the democracies, by the power of example and by their trade policies, can induce the peoples of all Europe to work together rather than to fight against each other.

Visit Distorted
The basis of good relations between the democracies is, of course, an understanding of each other's purposes. Selfish ambitions lead to suspicion and misunderstanding. Even the Eden visit has been distorted by anti-Britishers in our midst to mean that Great Britain has some complicated plan in mind to entangle the United States.

But the Eden mission, for it will rank as such even though unofficial, has a greater importance than the forwarding of any Anglo-American military or naval compact or agreements of joint action. Mr. Eden must have learned that the people of the United States are not interested in the territorial squabbles of Europe or in the ramifications of British empire policy which place materialism above idealism. What he found the American people interested in was the basic preservation of democracy. On that score, America is interested in every thing Britain or her spokesmen say or do.

Restores Prestige
The curious happenstance that Anthony Eden is not a part of the British government, but has at times reflected a viewpoint which has been in opposition to Prime Minister Chamberlain, made his visit all the more effective. Certainly, since the Munich peace treaty, the prestige of England has suffered considerably. It fell to Anthony Eden to help restore that prestige, and so far as official Washington was concerned and the newspapermen of the national capital, it may be said that he did a very effective job. The expressions of many newspaper correspondents after his talk were favorable, indeed, and it is no exaggeration to say that direct dealing, open and frank exposition of the British viewpoint, can do more toward cementing the British and American democracies than any other single course of action.

It now remains for France to send an unofficial ambassador who can convey to us here the same conviction, the same sincerity of approach and the same resoluteness of purpose as did Britain's young spokesman. For the one thing the democracies need is not to send formal diplomats who do not know how to speak the language of directness so much desired by Americans, but to send envoys who can lay all the cards on the table and describe the international situation in terms that must unmistakably show the vital importance of tackling world problems, as Prime Minister Chamberlain phrased it in his latest address, by listening to "reason instead of force."

PATENTS

The present American patent law is 102 years of age.

That it is not giving entire satisfaction is made evident by the several congressional inquiries that have been instituted during the past decade including the one now proceeding at Washington.

The proposition in relation to all patents and copyrights is to reward an inventor or creator suitably in the expectation that the nation will benefit by thus spurring him on to his utmost. The idea is an integral part of the capitalistic system, the paying of something additional to the one who achieves an outstanding accomplishment. Certainly it has wrought wonders in our nation.

But as with other tenets of capitalism, the question is fairly presented whether the rewards offered are too great and the rights created in the owners of the patent too exclusive.

A great many inventions these days are brought forth in chemical or industrial laboratories by men employed by great organizations to keep them modern and abreast of others or a little in advance. But that has not entirely eliminated the genius of the cobwebbed attic, the sleepless Edisons with restless, tireless imaginations forever seeking new ways and things.

The most advanced industries of the United States do not try to create monopolies when they have invented something new, however amazing or revolutionary. These great industries have worked out a means of pooling their inventions and providing reasonable royalties to the successful creators. This very fact, we would think, should suggest the need of change in our basic patent rules for these great organizations have adopted pooling only in self-defense and as a boon to their respective industries. They have realized the possibility that a hundred million dollar plant might be made inoperative if a competitor discovered an invention which it could not use.

In our capitalistic system we permitted for a while complete freedom of financial profit and action in order to stimulate endeavor. We have found since that when the sky is the limit the stakes are too high and that we may get the utmost of human endeavor by cutting down the limit and at the same time protecting many others.

Since patents are the key to great wealth accumulations it seems proper to closely re-examine the results under existing laws in order to eradicate abuses and unexpected and unfortunate consequences, and all without destroying the necessary lure of profits to the inventor.

SLAUGHTER IN THE WOODS

Citizens generally, and hunters especially, will approve the 60-day sentence imposed on the Michigan man who fired into a truck loaded with CCC youths in the belief he was shooting at a deer. Further, most will agree that he is fortunate the penalty was not more severe; that no one died to make it a prison term for manslaughter.

"The truck didn't carry a red flag," he is quoted as complaining. Perhaps not, but it is a lead-pipe cinch that neither did the truck carry the forked antlers that every hunter is supposed to see plainly before he turns loose his artillery. The average man would perceive little similarity between tarpaulin and deerhide, or between the snort of an angry buck and that of a 90-horse motor.

The unescapable long and short of it is that the defendant, who had traveled some 400 miles to hunt, was determined to get a deer, regardless of how many chances he had to take, or how many illegal kills he had to make before downing a quarry that he could claim. It is this readiness to shoot at sights and sounds, in the most imbecilic disregard of law and common sense, that yearly fills the woods with slaughtered does and livestock, and in all too many cases, dead and injured human beings.

Custody and control of any device capable of dealing death to one's fellows should be followed inexorably by strict responsibility for its use or misuse, and the handler forewarned of the penalty he may expect if injury results.

FRENCH AND GERMAN DIGS

The Schwarze Korps, publication of Hitler's Black Guards, printed shortly after the Munich pact an obituary notice announcing the passing of Czechoslovakia and set up according to the usual formula common in Germany for announcing the death of a relative, as follows:

"In deepest grief and sorrow, the undersigned give notice of the final passing of their beloved child of care—Czechoslovakia. She died after long and intense pain on Saturday, October 1, 1938, following an operation for appendicitis, having received the spiritual comforts of the holy Communion in Moscow and surrendering herself to the will of the Fuehrer, at the age of twenty."

"The solemn burial was performed from October 1 to 10, 1938, by the German army. The solemn requiem Mass for the repose of her soul will take place on October 28, 1938."

"Silent condolence is requested by Gottwald, Dimitrov, Syrovoy—god-parents; the League of Nations—parents; Litvinov, Stalin—uncles."

"Undertakers—Benes, Jaksch, and Co., late Masaryk."

Gottwald and Jaksch were, respectively, Communist and Socialist leaders at Prague. The noticeable thing is that no barb was reserved for France. Even in numerous publications France is treated in Germany as a pretty decent nation. But Russia,—that is another story. And with it the future.

The Paris Canard Enchaîné, leaving the Germans somewhat alone, has aimed its shafts at the Italians, although upon a subject held in common with Berlin, that of the Jews. This Paris publication spread a story that should make an Italian as hot as spaghetti sauce. It said:

"The Fascist Grand Council has just decided that Italian Jews may no longer do military service, either in time of peace or in time of war."

"Since this news became known, hundreds of thousands of Italians have rushed to the synagogues after having converted themselves to the Hebrew religion. A dispatch from Burgos announces that 98 per cent of the Italian Volunteers have declared themselves to be Israelites."

There are men who like to play pranks on others but take in ill grace jokes on themselves. If that quality is general in Europe it is not so difficult to understand the rise of angry passions.

OUT OF THE DISTANT PAST

Sir Robert Mond, head of the Egypt Exploration Society, who died recently, has been found to be the owner of the world's finest private collection of ancient Egyptian art.

Among the extremely rare articles which this man owned were statues of two little girls dating from a period about 5500 years ago, one a maiden with sparkling eyes and long ringlets, the other a figure of a girl bending over a jar of beautifier, and in the jar were still traces of the rouge placed upon the dressing table of an Egyptian lady of quality so many centuries ago.

The rarity of these objects makes them of incalculable value, value beyond description. Private ownership of them is a great mistake. They are curiosities that make people dream to even stare at them. But they impose upon a private owner, as upon Mond, the construction of a deep hiding place beneath the earth similar to the tomb in the Valley of the Kings in which they were found.

A man fired by Mond's enthusiasm to search back through the dense curtains of time for a picture of those so long departed, must find in the realization of his ambition a peculiar mixture of joy and sorrow, of sweetness and bitterness. He is sustained in his high efforts by the anticipation of a great find. But even discovery beyond his fondest hopes must depress him in the termination of that life-giving thing known as desire.

AMERICA'S LEAD

Figures have been occasionally printed indicating the percentage of the good things of the world which America buys, has and uses, a percentage altogether out of proportion to the number of people within her gates.

But the statistics produced by one of the executive vice-presidents of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company are even more compelling in the vision they paint of our real prosperity than pictures of tables loaded with food, our people loaded with clothing, their home furnished with the best and their schools the leaders of the world, for these figures show a foresight as well as a prosperity.

The United States has but 7 per cent of the world's population but it has 64 per cent of the world's life insurance. Joining the United States and Canada there is actually found here upon this North American continent 68 per cent of the life insurance in the world, representing as we all know not only the bulwark to protect the family in case of the breadwinner's death but as safe an investment as was revealed during the blackest days of the depression.

PER INSTRUCTIONS
By way of background to this story, you must know that Bloomingdale's keeps in contact with its warehouse in Long Island City by means of a station wagon. The driver makes hourly trips back and forth, via the Queensboro Bridge, delivering packages, orders, interoffice memoranda, and an occasional employee with business at one end or the other.

Well, one day last week the driver came out of the warehouse after making a delivery and found his truck gone. He notified the police right away, and the prowl cars of three boroughs were given the number and description of the missing vehicle. Fifteen minutes later

DALE HARRISON'S

In Old New York

New York—I wonder how old is Fritz Scheff? Somehow, though, it isn't really important. Whatever the records show wouldn't convince me. I saw her yesterday, and she is young. She was in street clothes, a fox cape over her small shoulders. There was no chance for dressing room wizards of grease paint to make her younger. She was as she is—Fritz Scheff, a woman who was a musical comedy prima donna 30 long years ago—long especially for a woman.

And she was a fine looking woman, not because the years had by some miracle declined to leave their mark but because she had never let her mind or her enthusiasms grow old. In her eyes were the same light of ambition and eagerness that must have burned in them well over a quarter of a century ago. Under her winter wraps was the suggestion of a figure almost as charming as in the days of her great triumph in "Mademoiselle Modiste."

Hardly two years ago Fritz Scheff was "through." There wasn't much money left. The way ahead didn't look too bright. A new generation of theatregoers gave her no notice. Her voice, never sensational, wasn't much. But she had heart, she had energy, and she had what so many people of the theatre have that the rest of us practical persons lack: eternal enthusiasm and everlasting youthfulness of mind.

Tonight this grand old lady of the stage will come out at Billy Rose's new night club—will come out clad in tights as she did long years ago—and will sing and smile and spread good cheer and happiness; and those dancing legs, still shapely enough to dare exposure in tights, will prance sprightly; and the throat that has caroled a famous song to a thousand audiences will carol it anew—"Kiss Me Again."

Billy Rose's newest adventure in entertainment is the "recreation of an era," as he puts it. In his Diamond Horseshoe he has endeavored to bring back the flavor of the days of Diamond Jim Brady, of Rector's and Delmonico's, and of Steve Brodie's famous saloon.

He has had the gay audacity to splash the place with red—a flaming, firewagon red—and to garnish it with white and gold.

At one end of the room, which formerly was the Paramount hotel grill, stretches a bar, ornate with lights typed from the old gaslight days. Stretched behind the bar is a stage on which he parades show girls and dancing choristers to tunes from those fabled and fabulous days. In a revue which John Murray Anderson has staged he has recreated four phases of the Diamond Jim era—Brodie's saloon, Delmonico's, the early Ziegfeld Follies, and Rector's. For performers he has the tireless hooper, Tom Patricola, Elizabeth Murray, Fritz Scheff, Joe Howard (who doesn't like to be reminded he is in his seventies, and doesn't look it) and others, including Harry Armstrong, composer of the greatest barbershop song of them all, "Sweet Adeline."

His cashiers start each night with 1,000 silver dollars in their tills, for all change will be made in silver. (You can go for years in New York without even seeing a silver dollar.) I hear he has been bombarded for jobs by waiters who figure patrons will be so unused to the sight of silver dollars that they will think they are 50-cent pieces and will leave them as tips! If this libels the waiters, I apologize; but I did hear it.

Along each side of the large room are boxes, carrying the nameplates of men and women who were prominent in the Brady days—Vanderbilt, Ward McAllister, Lillian Russell, the Dolly Sisters.

And at the entrance, ornately displayed in plush-lined wall cases, will gleam duplicates (in paste) of all the Brady diamonds—two full cases of them to blind you as you walk down the entrance stairway.

Billy speaks of them proudly. "They are a fortune in gems," he tells you. "A million dollars worth. Why, even in paste they cost me $1,800!"

25 YEARS AGO

The Ritz hotel was sold the previous day to the Randolph Hotel company of Milwaukee at a price of $65,000. The Ritz had been owned and operated by Anton Ritz for about 20 years.

Alden Thompson was elected president of the High School Alumni association while Miss Marjorie Sweetman was named vice president the previous evening. Other officers named were Glen Carroll, treasurer, and Miss Linda Klemme, secretary.

Theodore Sanders, secretary and treasurer of the Appleton Marble and Granite works, the previous day sold out his interest to George Wolf, president of the corporation.

The Kimberly-Clark company, manufacturing paper at Neenah, increased its capital stock from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. The fee for filing the amendment with the secretary of state was $1,010.

James W. Bishop of Detroit, representing Henry Ford, was in Menasha Monday and purchased an electric generator more than 40 years old from George A. Whiting Paper company. Mr. Bishop purchased it for his employer's museum.

Neenah chapter Royal Arch Mason at its meeting that week elected Clarence Arneemann excellent high priest. Other officers named were Jules Roels, king; Albert Koepel, scribe; Edward C. Arneemann, treasurer; O. W. Jones, secretary, and Frank Kellogg, Sr., trustee for three years.

Nick Mertes rolled 231 for single game in the City Bowling league at Hilgenberg alleys in Kaukauna that week. E. Kalupa rolled 568 for high series.

Postal officials and members of the chamber of commerce were working to give the new air mail route an auspicious start as far as Appleton was concerned by appeals to local concerns to send all first class mail via airplane when the ships stopped at Whiting airport on the initial trip the following Saturday.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

WINTER AT MY DOOR

Winter pounds desperately at my door. I double-lock it, then I feel secure. No sudden blast of bitter cold will pour into my windows though the day is dour; But on my doorstep Winter's tread is sure, And if I stir outside, it walks before.

Sorrow waits on the threshold of my mind. I bat the windows and the door is fast. But I can hear it tapping on the blind As I have heard it in the somber past. Knowing that I must step outside at last And brave whatever weather God designed. (Copyright, 1938) the cops found it parked on the Lexington avenue side of Bloomingdale's store.

It had been driven across the bridge by an anxious young man in a windbreaker, who wanted a job. He had applied first at the warehouse, and they told him that the employment office was in the store. "Just take our station wagon over the bridge," they had told him, and he had.—The New Yorker.

A Bystander

In Washington

BY FRESTON GROVER

Washington—The ace product of Russia's new mass production automobile industry—a seven-passenger 110-horsepower sedan—is rolling about Washington streets these days, the first of its kind in the country. It was sent over for use of the embassy and the staff is no end proud of it. In design it is something akin to a Cadillac and frankly follows American streamlining in preserving something of its own personality.

When we went out to the Soviet embassy to see it, Mr. Constantine A. Oumansky gave us the details. Mr. Oumansky is Charge d'Affaires in the absence of Ambassador Trotsky, who has been in Russia these several weeks while the usual ominous Russian rumors gather in his wake.

The new car, model ZIS-101, is in mass production in Russia but not sufficiently in mass to supply the home demand. None is for export and according to Mr. Oumansky none will be exported for quite some time.

Not Enough To Go Around
There is a lively demand at home. Officials need many. A few are able to buy them. Still more receive them for meritorious service. Scientists, engineers and noted figures are likely to get one almost any time—if production keeps up as planned. Plants produced 182,000 trucks and 18,000 automobiles in 1937 compared with 1,702 automobiles and trucks in 1929. Production for this year is scheduled at 250,000 cars and trucks, and the 1941 estimate is 500,000.

Washington's ZIS-101 is piloted by an American negro chauffeur named Edward. Edward would be in a fine fix if something went wrong with the car unless he knew instinctively how to repair it. The book of directions is in Russian, of which Edward knows not a word.

The car is slightly narrower through the waist than current modes of high priced American cars. Contrary to usual European modes, it has a left hand drive.

High Priced Tires
It was made in Russia to the last bolt, said Mr. Oumansky, even the synthetic tires, which cost twice as much as natural rubber. Reputedly they wear longer but have less road-grip.

Incidentally, the top is lofty enough to permit high hats. The Russian envoys here wear them the same as other diplomats. It sort of upsets you to learn that such cars are used in Moscow as taxicabs.

Mr. Oumansky read from the book that the car's rated speed is 120 kilometers an hour, which converts into 75 miles an hour. There was some confusion as to whether that was top speed or merely a recommended safety limit. With its motor rating it seems it ought to do 100 miles or better.

Radio Tuned To Russia
It has a straight-eight motor and gets about 15 miles to the gallon. It has a heater, the usual gadgets and gauges and a radio with both long and short wave which is tuned to Russian stations. American stations are picked up readily but it is a strictly hunt and peck system. The numbers don't fit.

Very soon now the embassy auto will have some companions in America. Four of its type, including slightly later models, have been unloaded in New York for use of the Russian commission to Grover Whalen's world's fair. They have not been unpacked.

Edward said the car took readily to American gasoline.

5. Name three of the French territories that figured in an Italian parliamentary demonstration for a larger empire.

Personal Health Talks

ALIMENTARY PROCESS

Here is a phenomenon which the neurotic, malnourished, uneducated or misinformed individual (be he university graduate or plain moron) cannot understand namely, that a healthy, carefree, normal happy-go-lucky person, eating freely of whatever the table affords, regardless of its digestibility, enjoying a good meal, in cheerful company, without concern about calories, starches or the condition of the bowel, generally has little or no trouble with his digestion or his bowels. On the other hand, the neurotic himself almost invariably suffers from functional derangement of stomach, intestine or colon, and as a rule depends more or less on one or another artificial stimulus or aid to these functions to keep him going—or what he childishly imagines is an aid.

The fundamental anatomical or physiological fact which the average college-trained individual fails to comprehend is that the voluntary or conscious cerebro-spinal nervous system does not control any part of the alimentary function. The action of the bowel is controlled entirely by the unconscious, involuntary, autonomic or automatic "sympathetic" nervous mechanism, the same automatic mechanism as that which controls the action of the heart and the lungs, the same as that which controls or regulates the excretion of sweat and the cooling of the body. No one has any serious concern about "regulating" his heart beat or breathing, for of course everyone knows that these vegetative functions are automatically controlled and require no consideration or attention—indeed they are best controlled when one forgets them altogether.

The alimentary or bowel function or functions are under the same control as the other vegetative or vital functions and require no more thought or consideration on the part of the individual than does the beating of the heart. The only reason why the badly misinformed layman cannot grasp this truth is that he has been brought up on almanacs and testimonial hokum which the nostrum and quackery interests have fed the public for many years. The layman assumed the hokum was true, since the medical profession never unbent enough to question or deny it, until the last few years. For that matter, there are still a considerable number of quacks in the ranks of regular medicine who, when they kind of an idea what ails the patient or what should be done about it, prescribe some kind of physic with the avowed or implied assurance that a "good cleaning out" ought to help.

She Likes It Raw

I am not in a position to choose my food in the way I should like to do, but have to take what I find on the bill of fare. However, I have found that wheat germ does all and more than you say. I use one pound recommended—a pound costs 20 cents. I take about four dessertspoonsful raw, with milk, and sometimes mix some in with soup, pudding or cereal. Since I started this my nervous irritability is less and I am not so grouchy—and friends say I look more alive. (Miss A. C.)

Mothers Can Train Children To Make Good Husbands, Wives

BY ANGELO PATRI

"Why do you bother so much about Billy's waiting on you? You could do for yourself all he does with less trouble and wasted time. What do you give yourself all that bother? I wouldn't care whether he handed me a chair, or helped himself first, or opened a door for his grandmother. He's a boy and he will learn in time. Save yourself all the bother."

"I'll keep on bothering, thank you. I'd like to think that the boy I reared would be a good husband and father. That he would know how to be helpful, thoughtful, understanding and kind to those depending upon him. A good husband and father makes a family happy, and that's about the best any man can do in my estimation."

"You're looking a long way ahead."

"Not so far. He's eight now. In thirteen years, maybe sooner, he will be a young man, starting out for himself. I have only a few years, perhaps the next seven or eight, to teach him what he needs to know about his job as head of a house, or as the man of the house, married or not."

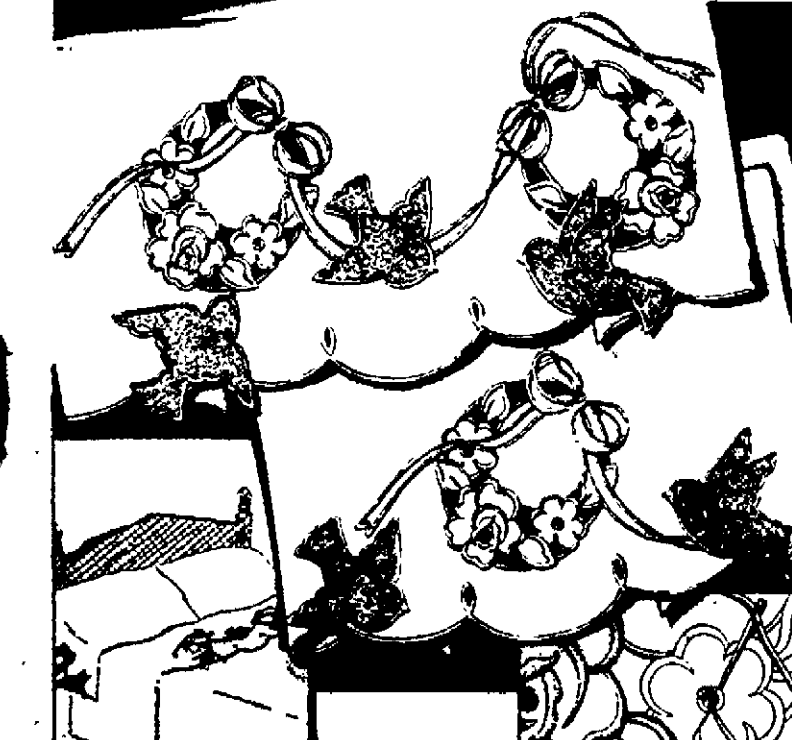

"You're right, but I'm only thinking of the trouble it gives you."

"And I'm thinking of the trouble I may save him and his wife and children. His father got that training from his mother, and I in sheer gratitude I'd pass it on even if I didn't know that it would mean a great deal to the boy himself."

"I'm able to find a chair for myself, able to get myself a wrap or a glass of water. I am able to do the housework without the boy's help, but he needs the understanding that his helping me and his father and his sister gives him. And the same for her. I want them to grow up, knowing how to be a worth-while family person. If they are part of that kind of a family they learn. The earlier the better. They imitate what they see us do, so it isn't so hard to teach them as it might seem. Son does what he has seen father do countless times as a matter of course. A little reminding and a little encouragement and thanks do the rest."

Mothers have a fine opportunity to train their children to make good husbands and wives. The heaviest share of the responsibility falls on the mother because she is the most authoritative person in the immediate family group where the children are concerned. She is the leader. If she teaches them to help her and their father, and to be considerate of each other, they will learn. If father and mother are good examples as heads of the household,

A Q ♠ Q 8 ♦ 10 4 3 2 ♣ J 10 8 4

What call do you make?

Answer: You should bid two no trump. Somebody at the table is "lying," but you must trust your partner who made a vulnerable double. Probably East's redouble was either the silly type, based on nothing but spade support, or was an out-and-out phycic. At any rate, you have a strong hand and two likely stoppers in the adversely bid suit. If you were to bid two clubs at this point it would be a weakness response and would place a terrible burden on your partner, who could not be expected to realize you had such general strength. A three club bid is not much better. Partner cannot be expected to bid no trump because it is almost impossible that he should have a spade stopper. For fuller explanation of the prescribed two no trump bid, see Today's Hand below. (25 points demerit for 1 no trump, 3 no trump, or 3 club; 35 points demerit for any other call, including a pass.)

Question 55: Both sides vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

North East South West
1club Pass 1spade Pass
2diamonds Pass ?

You are South and hold:

A Q J 8 4 ♠ K 10 8 3 ♦ J 4 ♣ 10 4 3

What call do you make now?

Answer: You should bid two no trump. The next choice is three no trump. A two spade rebid would be entirely too conservative in the light of North's bidding, and would not indicate the heart strength you hold (7 points demerit for 3 no trump; 14 points demerit for 3 spades; 20 points demerit for 2 spades; 30 points demerit for 3 clubs; 35 points demerit for any other call.)

The bidding:

West North East South
1sp. to 4p. Double East 2 no tr/p
Pass 3 no tr/p Pass Pass

This hand formed the basis of question 54, answered above.

The crucial point of this hand was South's response to his partner's takeout double. I am afraid that many players holding South's hand would be guilty of a horrible two club bid as a take-out of the redouble, or possibly a much less horrible, but still not good, one no trump take-out. The fact is that South should think very highly of his hand, on the bidding, and should select a bid thoroughly expressive of that satisfaction. A sound player in South's position would reason that something was "rotten in Denmark" with the bidding up to that point. It would be impossible to devise a hand that would give West a sound opening bid, North a sound vulnerable double, East a sound redouble, and which still would leave South with all the honor cards he actually held. South's reasoning therefore should be "somebody is lying," and, of course, he should not suspect his own vulnerable partner. Despite South's strength, he should not be too optimistic about making a game in a minor suit, but should look on no trump as the logical destination.

My Neighbor Says—

To retain the ceru tint in marquisette curtains get 5 cents worth of yellow okra powder at a hardware store. Mix half a cup of powder with a cup of hot water and put a little into a large pan filled with warm water. Try dipping a piece of white cloth into this and when you have the desired color put in curtains that have been carefully washed.

To keep white silk stockings, blouses, etc., from turning yellow in laundering, use a little alcohol in the rinse water.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Psychologist, Northwestern University

One reason for strife and unhappiness in the home is the fact that men seldom pay women the deserved praise which is their due. Men too often take feminine sacrifices for granted, or expect such favors as masculine prerogative. Read this case, wake up, and join the Compliment club.

CASE L-193: Mavis, aged 21, is a medical student.

"Several of us girls have been wondering about our medical careers," she began. "Should women study for a profession and prepare to earn an independent livelihood? Or is it wrong to compete in the business world with the male sex? In Germany today they are husband, although she naturally hopes to be happily married some day.

Women Deserve Trouble Praise

Women deserve trouble praise in this hectic modern age, for they work under some severe difficulties. Although they are just as intelligent as men, as proved by our mental tests, they are physically weaker.

Moreover, men resent their intrusion into the business and professional world, so a woman must work much harder than a man of equal ability to win the same salary check or executive post.

Because she pays a double price for her success, woman is likely to overestimate its importance, which is one reason why female bosses or executives are unpopular.

With a somewhat hostile economic world confronting her, she must try to become self-supporting, at least for five or ten years. Then, if she marries, two options confront her.

If her husband cannot support the home, she must do her work in a factory or office. After which she comes home at night to prepare a meal and handle her household duties.

Inconsiderate Husbands

Working daughters shoulder some of this domestic work whereas their brothers seldom do. When husband or brother comes home, he usually feels he has no responsibility regarding preparing meals, washing the dishes, or doing the housework.

The wife or sister, however, is expected to assume those domestic tasks on top of her business or office job, and still receives no extra thanks or appreciation for it. The sister may also pay the same board as her brother.

If a wife, however, gives up her position in the business world, she has an even harder task in running the home. But that isn't all. She must be a child psychologist and teacher, for most of the psychological as well as physical care of her children will fall to her lot.

Most women would prefer to be happily married, and running a home. But circumstances will not permit that in every case, so they resolutely try to adjust as best they can, and deserve far more praise than they get.

(Dr. Crane will give personal attention to questions on psychological problems. Write him, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a 3-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply. Letters and readers' names are never published.)

Educated Woman Should Not Marry Man Below Her Level

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—I am a high school graduate and a registered nurse and am now assistant night superintendent in a big hospital. I am engaged to a young man of excellent character and splendid ability who has a fine job and is greatly respected by all who know him. But I cannot get over the fact that he stopped school just before he graduated and is not even a high school graduate. He also has a sister who is not a high school graduate. All of my family, three boys and four girls, excepting myself, have college educations and I feel that he is in Class B, in so far as education is concerned, compared with me. When I am with this man I am very sure that I love him, but when I am away from him I begin doubting whether I love him enough to make up the difference in education between us. What would you advise me to do?

LOIS.

Answer: I would certainly advise you most earnestly not to marry him, for there can be no happiness in a marriage in which the wife considers herself her husband's superior and looks down upon him with contempt.

There is no difference between the sexes that is so marked as the way in which men and women look at this subject. Men do not seem to care education, but they know life. They have the wisdom that the fields and brooks and toiling men had taught them, and perhaps your fiancé is one of these.

Compare him with your college brother and see if he hasn't learned more in the school of hard knocks than your brother has at any university. Ask yourself if what you have seen in a hospital of the skill of the doctors, of suffering, of courage and agony and despair, of birth and death, has not given you more real education than your sister has got in college.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young man 19 years old and a junior at college. I am very much in love with a girl of my own age, but we are both poor and cannot afford to marry. I am planning to enter a profession and will have five more years in school. It will take another year or two to get established so that I can afford a wife. Is it fair to ask her to wait that long? I love her dearly, but am very jealous. Because it is impossible for me to see her while I am away at school, we are puzzled as to what course to follow. What is your advice?

JIM AND ANNA.

Answer: I do not think under the circumstances that you should blind yourself with a definite engagement. You should just sort of take an option, so to speak, on each other, with the understanding that you will let the love fire smolder along on the hearth. If at the end of the six or seven years you still feel about each other as you do now, then you will get married.

I think that for a young man in your position to enter into a long engagement is about the most disastrous thing he can do, and for the girl it is virtually suicide. Consider the case from your point of view. You are just a boy, with a boy's taste in women as well as in everything else in life. In seven years you will be a man, with a man's taste in women, which may not be at all what your boy tastes were. You are going away from the girl and that means an inevitable growing apart. You are going to be thrown with new people, see new girls, associate with scholarly and cultured people. You are going to study, learn, develop and when you come back home after seven years you will be a new man.

How do you know you are going to love this girl who will have changed into a woman? How do you know you are going to want her? How do you know that there will be any congeniality between you?

Consider the case from the girl's standpoint. If you definitely engage yourself to her, you are going to demand that she virtually make a hermit of herself for the next seven years. That she cut herself off from all of the pleasures that belong to her time of life, from knowing other men and going with them. You are asking the sacrifice of her girlhood. You are keeping her from marrying any other man. And yet after seven years of waiting you may not want to marry her. She may not want to marry you.

So I urge you, for both of your sakes, not to enter into an engagement. If your love is really strong enough to endure the test of seven years of separation and change, you will wait for each other, with or without a definite bargain.

CHRISTMAS PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Post: I have a few names on my Christmas card list of women whose husbands I do not know. Shall I address the cards to Mr. and Mrs. in spite of not knowing both of them? I'm not married, but if I were would I sign my husband's name with mine even if he didn't know either one? (The last half of this question is for a friend who is married.)

Answer: It is always proper to address an envelope Mr. and Mrs. whether you know the wife or only the husband. Christmas cards are also sent out in the double name of husband and wife when

THE ARMY POST MURDERS

By Virginia Hanson

The Characters

Katherine Cornish, mystic, visiting Elizabeth on a mid-western Army post.

Elizabeth, Colonel Wright's daughter.

Adam Drew, acting commanding officer.

Yesterday: The sanitarium bills of Ethel Curtis were paid through a law firm. The murder gun belongs to Elizabeth.

Chapter 20

Searching

"I think you all know by now that another girl has been murdered."

Adam was standing by a round wicker table that was laden with magazines, with ash trays, with empty coffee cups. The rest of us were distributed in chairs around the lounge, listening, waiting. I glanced from face to face, seeing fear, horror, hostility. Nowhere could I recognize guilt.

"We do not know who this girl is," Adam continued evenly. "We know that she called herself Ethel Curtis, which may or may not be her name. We know that she was ill—that she had recurring attacks of epilepsy. She had one tonight. We know that she left a sanitarium in Illinois yesterday—that before she left she received a letter from someone on this post."

"Do any of you know such a girl, or know of her?"

He waited during a breathless, lengthening silence that weighed so heavily that it seemed to me any one who knew must scream his knowledge, must somehow break the listening stillness.

I glanced fearfully toward the balcony and again fearfully at the window beside me. Someone had closed the front door, and though the air was stifling there had been no dissenting voices.

Adam's pleasant, conversational tones resumed.

"Very well. We know that she was murdered just before or after the lights went out. Just a minute, please—"

A babble of voices had interrupted him.

"I'll ask you for your alibis later. But first I want to settle some things else. We know that she was stabbed by a long knife with perhaps a two-inch blade—and probably doubled edged. I want to find that knife, and I'm going to ask you all to submit to a search. You women go into the powder room and lock the door. Search each other, then search the room and the lavatory. Stay there until I call you. You don't mind?" He added with a winning air of asking their permission.

Mrs. Orpington stood up, regarded her brief Pierrette costume complacently and cackled.

"Anyone can search me that wants to. I've got nothing to hide."

"If you have, you didn't bother to hide it tonight, did you, Lou?"

It was Mrs. Flower again.

They had almost forgotten how to laugh. The tentative experiment in mirth died guiltily. Silent, the women filed into the dressing room.

I was the last. I shut the door and turned the key and stood for a moment looking at that room—the left-hand wall where Anne had lain, at the long metal rack opposite the door where four or five detached garments were still suspended and where I had seen Mrs. Flower hang her black velvet, violet-scented wrap upon our arrival after dinner. To my right the stairs went up to the balcony. Beyond, on the right-hand wall, a swinging door led to the lavatory. I remembered the outside door by which I had left in search of Adam. Crossing the room, I turned that key, too, then found a chair and sank into it.

Pointedly Ignored

Mary Shaw had fled to a mirror and was making anxious dabs at her face. Elizabeth and Annie were sobbing searching each other. Then Elizabeth was in front of me, looking apologetic and obviously waiting for me to rise.

"We may as well get this formal over with," she said.

WHAT TO DO AT A BUFFET MEAL

Dear Mrs. Post: My friend insists that at a buffet meal one is supposed to pick up plate, silver and napkin first and then proceed around the table and help oneself. I contend that it would be much easier to take the silver and the napkin after having filled the plate and that it wouldn't matter which way it was done. Will you please settle our little argument.

Answer: There is absolutely no rule, no precedent, no plan where by people at a buffet meal are supposed to help themselves to one item before another. In other words, you take what you choose and in the way it may seem most expedient to help yourself. As a matter of fact, I agree with you that it sounds easier to put food on your plate first before laying whatever silver you will need on the side of it, and then last of all picking up a napkin and holding it underneath the plate. In one hand, leaving the other hand free to pick up your glass. Actually the procedure would have to depend upon how the table was set and where at it you happened to begin.

GUEST OF HONOR

Dear Mrs. Post: I belong to a church organization and we sometimes entertain at dinner. We always invite the clergyman and his wife, of course. Are they to be considered the principal guests even though we may have other guests who are to be on the program as speakers and singers?

Answer: When there are guests who are on your program as speakers and singers, they would be guests of honor rather than the clergyman and his wife. In fact, they are also guests of the clergyman. When you are all by yourselves, just the parishioners and your clergyman and his wife, then I think the clergyman and his wife should be given precedence.

Monday: The women turn on me.

I stood while she poked and patted diffidently at the blue silk pajamas. I wondered if she was thinking about the mandarin coat. Neither Adam nor I had mentioned it, and she was too well bred ever to ask me where I had left it. But I could not face telling her yet.

Annie had advanced, terrierlike, on Mary Shaw and was giving her a going-over that would have done credit to a Chicago policeman. I must admit that I would have liked to prod the stays of her Elizabethan dress—assure myself that nothing was concealed under them.

But Shaw had alibied himself and her.

We found nothing of course. I took little part in the search, but I tried to keep everyone in view; and if there was any knife undiscovered in those two rooms it could have been no larger than a nail file.

It was afterward, when we sat down to wait, that I was aware that Mary Shaw and Lou Orpington were pointedly ignoring my presence. They did not succeed in being very obvious, for Elizabeth was beside me, and Mrs. Flower persisted in carrying on her aimless chatter. I listened, because I couldn't tell when I might pick up a scrap of information. But all the time I was conscious of the lengthening silence that weighed so heavily that it seemed to me any one who knew must scream his knowledge, must somehow break the listening stillness.

Dear Mrs. Post: My friend insists that at a buffet meal one is supposed to pick up plate, silver and napkin first and then proceed around the table and help oneself. I contend that it would be much easier to take the silver and the napkin after having filled the plate and that it wouldn't matter which way it was done. Will you please settle our little argument.

Answer: There is absolutely no rule, no precedent, no plan where by people at a buffet meal are supposed to help themselves to one item before another. In other words, you take what you choose and in the way it may seem most expedient to help yourself. As a matter of fact, I agree with you that it sounds easier to put food on your plate first before laying whatever silver you will need on the side of it, and then last of all picking up a napkin and holding it underneath the plate. In one hand, leaving the other hand free to pick up your glass. Actually the procedure would have to depend upon how the table was set and where at it you happened to begin.

GUEST OF HONOR

Dear Mrs. Post: I belong to a church organization and we sometimes entertain at dinner. We always invite the clergyman and his wife, of course. Are they to be considered the principal guests even though we may have other guests who are to be on the program as speakers and singers?

Answer: When there are guests who are on your program as speakers and singers, they would be guests of honor rather than the clergyman and his wife. In fact, they are also guests of the clergyman. When you are all by yourselves, just the parishioners and your clergyman and his wife, then I think the clergyman and his wife should be given precedence.

Monday: The women turn on me.

I stood while she poked and patted diffidently at the blue silk pajamas. I wondered if she was thinking about the mandarin coat. Neither Adam nor I had mentioned it, and she was too well bred ever to ask me where I had left it. But I could not face telling her yet.

Annie had advanced, terrierlike, on Mary Shaw and was giving her a going-over that would have done credit to a Chicago policeman. I must admit that I would have liked to prod the stays of her Elizabethan dress—assure myself that nothing was concealed under them.

But Shaw had alibied himself and her.

We found nothing of course. I took little part in the search, but I tried to keep everyone in view; and if there was any knife undiscovered in those two rooms it could have been no larger than a nail file.

It was afterward, when we sat down to wait, that I was aware that Mary Shaw and Lou Orpington were pointedly ignoring my presence. They did not succeed in being very obvious, for Elizabeth was beside me, and Mrs. Flower persisted in carrying on her aimless chatter. I listened, because I couldn't tell when I might pick up a scrap of information. But all the time I was conscious of the lengthening silence that weighed so heavily that it seemed to me any one who knew must scream his knowledge, must somehow break the listening stillness.

I glanced fearfully toward the balcony and again fearfully at the window beside me. Someone had closed the front door, and though the air was stifling there had been no dissenting voices.

Adam's pleasant, conversational tones resumed.

"Very well. We know that she was murdered just before or after the lights went out. Just a minute, please—"

A babble of voices had interrupted him.

"I'll ask you for your alibis later. But first I want to settle some things else. We know that she was stabbed by a long knife with perhaps a two-inch blade—and probably doubled edged. I want to find that knife, and I'm going to ask you all to submit to a search. You women go into the powder room and lock the door. Search each other, then search the room and the lavatory. Stay there until I call you. You don't mind?" He added with a winning air of asking their permission.

Mrs. Orpington stood up, regarded her brief Pierrette costume complacently and cackled.

"Anyone can search me that wants to. I've got nothing to hide."

"If you have, you didn't bother to hide it tonight, did you, Lou?"

It was Mrs. Flower again.

They had almost forgotten how to laugh. The tentative experiment in mirth died guiltily. Silent, the women filed into the dressing room.

I was the last. I shut the door and turned the key and stood for a moment looking at that room—the left-hand wall where Anne had lain, at the long metal rack opposite the door where four or five detached garments were still suspended and where I had seen Mrs. Flower hang her black velvet, violet-scented wrap upon our arrival after dinner. To my right the stairs went up to the balcony. Beyond, on the right-hand wall, a swinging door led to the lavatory. I remembered the outside door by which I had left in search of Adam. Crossing the room, I turned that key, too, then found a chair and sank into it.

Pointedly Ignored

Mary Shaw had fled to a mirror and was making anxious dabs at her face. Elizabeth and Annie were sobbing searching each other. Then Elizabeth was in front of me, looking apologetic and obviously waiting for me to rise.

"We may as well get this formal over with," she said.

only one of them is known as well as when both are known.

Kaws Drilling for Conference Game At Menasha Friday

Little's Squad to Enter Game With Record of 1 Win, 1 Loss

Kaukauna — Hoping that last Friday's 26 to 19 defeat at the hands of St. Mary's of Menasha marked their low point of the season, Kaukauna High school basketballers are at work this week preparing to invade Menasha Friday evening in their third conference tilt. The Kaws have broken even in North-eastern loop play, defeating West DePere, 28 to 18, and falling before Neenah, 27 to 20, in their opening game.

Last year the Bluejays took two games from Kaukauna, taking an easy game in the opener here, and barely edging out the Kaws in Menasha. An injury to Carl Giordana, star guard, who had to leave the game, enabled the Menashans to rally and come out on top.

A resume of the season so far shows that the Kaws have been out-scored by four points, making 67 to their opponents' 71. The leading Kaukauna scorer is Bill Alzer with 21 points, on seven baskets and a like number of free throws. Other Kaws in the scoring column and their points are Joe Bloch 17, Don Bisela, 8, Carl Giordana, 8, Junior Swedberg, 6, Willis Riquette, 2, Robert Deros, 2, and Paul Koch, 2.

Lacked Aggressiveness
After showing flashes of offensive power against DePere, the Kaws fell off badly in the St. Mary's game, not making a field goal until the last quarter. They had tough luck on a lot of shots but lacked the aggressiveness of the

Children's Play Season to be Launched at Chapel Thursday

CLARE Tree Major Children's Theater will present the first of three plays to be given in Appleton this season at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at Lawrence chapel when the players will appear in John Ruskin's "The King of the Golden River." School children will be excused from classes in time for the performance upon the presentation to their teachers of written permission from their parents.

In order that the children may meet the actors in person and see what the play characters look like at close range, a stage reception will be held immediately after the show tomorrow afternoon.

"In the Children's Theater everything is planned in order to play on the child's emotions, presenting truths in such a fascinating manner that he will agree with them," Clare Tree Major, founder and director of the theater, said in an article entitled "Dramatizing Truth" which appeared in the November issue of the Christian Herald.

"All day long a little girl or boy observes the circumstances of life and draws conclusions," Mrs. Major continued, "but in the theater he reaches an intensity of feeling. He is presented with a problem at the beginning of the play. He watches it being worked out through a boy or girl who demonstrates the ideals and standards which we accept as the finest in living. Children learn so much through imitation. They want to be big, praised, secure. When they see a good boy obtaining such a status because he led his family to happiness, through demonstration of high principles, they identify themselves with that boy and try to behave that way, too."

The Clare Tree Major players appear in Appleton under the auspices of Edison school Parent Teacher's association.

'Big Bill' Again Enters Chicago Mayoralty Race

Declares 'People Think It Is Time for a Change'

Chicago —(AP)— It's vote roundup time again for William Hale "Big Bill" Thompson.

Chicago's three-time cowboy mayor has set out to corral the Republican nomination for the city's biggest job at the Feb. 20 primary.

The flamboyant 69-year-old politician who gained international notoriety during 38 turbulent years in Chicago politics formally announced his mayoral aspirations last night.

In a gesture typical of the man's showmanship, "Big Bill" whipped his 10-gallon campaign sombrero onto the stage of the Medinah temple as a large crowd of friends cheered.

"The people think it is time for a change," he boomed.

And the crowd answered in song: "Happy days are here again; 'Big Bill' will be our mayor again."

Thompson's cowboy hat — the best known headpiece in town — bore an "anti-foreign wars" slogan which denoted the latest of his many and varied campaigns.

Lively Race Certain Thompson's return to the hustings assured the city of a heated campaign. His campaigns have never been waged with kind gloves. Nor have they been confined to local issues. In 1926 he threatened to punch the late King George of England "on the snoot" if he ever came to Chicago. Betimes he has demanded "freedom for Ireland," and "America first." Thompson deserted his party for the first time in 1936 to run for governor on the Union-Progressive ticket. He finished a poor third. Dwight H. Green, former district attorney who prosecuted Al Capone and other gangsters, was regarded as Thompson's potential opponent in the Republican contest. He has been urged to run by 45 of the 50 Republican ward committeemen.

Meanwhile, supporters of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes awaited a decision on their request that he run on a liberal Democratic ticket.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly was expected to be a candidate but he has not yet made an announcement. State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, Democratic factional foe of the mayor and a potential candidate, likewise remained silent.

Gable Likely to Get His Freedom

Report Wife 11 Years His Senior Is Ready to Seek Divorce

Hollywood—(4)—Clark Gable's strained marriage to a woman 11 years his senior today appeared likely to reach a divorce court where he would be freed to wed Carole Lombard, his "best girl."

The husky film idol, himself announced that he estranged wife, Maria (Ria) Laneham Gable, from whom he separated in November, 1935, was at last ready to seek a divorce after a ruling on the legality of their property settlement by which she received $286,000.

The settlement was to be presented to Superior Judge Ruben Schmidt today.

Gable's and Miss Lombard's nuptial plans, if any, were not disclosed.

It would be the third marriage for the box office king of the movies, the second for the blonde comedienne. For two years, they have been "keeping company."

"It's temperament," explained Mrs. Rita Gable, dark-haired state-ly mother of two grown children, when the rift between her and the actor became known.

A divorcee, she had met Gable in New York when he was an obscure stage aspirant, helped to boost his career, and married him at Santa Ana, Calif., in 1931, after he scored a screen hit. They gave their ages then as 41 and 30, respectively.

During their three-year estrangement, she has denied rumors that, wealthy in her own right, she would never grant the money-making star his freedom. She said Gable had never asked her for it.

Like his second wife, his first, Mrs. Josephine Dillon, was older than Gable and aided his career. A former telephone trouble shooter, oil worker, and classed ad salesman, he took dramatic lessons from her. She is a successful drama coach in Hollywood today.

Miss Lombard, born June Peters in Fort Wayne, Ind., 29 years ago, is the ex-wife of William Powell.

Dress Accessories for Women Provide Wide Variety of Gift Possibilities for Christmas

BY VIOLA HELLERMANN

One sure way to please a lady at Christmas time is to give her something to wear. And when that something is a purse to match her new wine-colored costume, or washable French doekun gloves, a soft pastel-colored woolen scarf or any such useful accessory, the gift is as easy to buy as it is a pleasure to receive.

Why not, if the lady is young, give her some luxurious-looking, angora mittens in white or one of the pastel colors? They cost surprisingly little. Some of those being sold here were made in Appleton, but they look like French importations.

There is hardly a woman who couldn't use an extra scarf—whether she wears it simply under her coat for extra warmth, or peasant style over her head or as a substitute for a collar on a simple dress or blouse.

Challis Scarfs

One of the stores has a new assortment of imported challis scarfs in floral and paisley designs, with either light or dark backgrounds. The colors range from duobonnet to dull green and from gold to black. What we liked especially about these scarfs was their size. They are a good 29 inches square.

Among the assets is an imported Scotch plaid which would make a perfect accessory gift with one of the plaid purses offered for sale this year. There are plain-colored scarfs, too, in imported lamb's wool, almost any color you could ask for. Dusty pink, beige, plum, various shades of blue, are included in the lot.

If you are looking for a really luxurious gift, get one of the mantillas of black Chantilly lace which are being shown this year. Designed primarily for formal wear, they won't keep a lady's ears warm, but they will keep her coiffure neatly in place during whatever sale may be blowing when she's off to one of the Christmas balls. And they'll add immeasurably to her glamor.

Studded Neckwear

Another new note in the dress accessory field this year is studded neckwear. Collars of gold braid, studded with gay red, green, purple and topaz jewels will give elegance to an otherwise simple dress.

Scalloped Belts

And then there are belts—scalloped ones with a gleam of metal to enhance a tiny waist, jeweled ones for evening gowns and rich colors in suede to wear with sports clothes and tweeds. Wooden brooches carved to represent a name are another interesting accessory note.

Since fur accessories are so smart this year, why not, unless the lady already has one, get her a fur muff to match her fur coat or the fur collar on her cloth coat? Other suggestions are alligator or snakeskin purses which harmonize with almost any costume, embroidered, beaded or velvet evening bags and kid and fabric combination gloves which come in black, brown and wine colors.

Threat of Beetle Damage Next Year Seen by Experts

Alfalfa May Be Used as Control Measure For Grubs

Dry, dead blue grass pasture is likely to be all too common a sight on Wisconsin hillsides next year. This is the discouraging forecast of C. L. Fluke, state entomologist, in a bulletin received by R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agent.

It is expected that white grubs will reach the high point of their 3-year cycle in the state during 1939 and may do far more damage than was done last summer.

Farmers in heavily afflicted areas are recalling that last summer was the lightest period of the 3-year life span of the Brood A June beetle or June bug as they are more commonly known.

At the end of last June and for a period of two months afterward, these beetles were laying eggs in the ground. The eggs began hatching after three or four weeks, and the young grubs, after feeding near the surface of the ground for a few weeks, moved down into the soil this fall to a comfortable depth of 15 to 18 inches. The pests will come to the surface again next spring, and if they run true to form, will feed heavily all summer long, entomologists say. This is the time when most damage to such crops as corn, potatoes and strawberries can be seen.

Control Measure

Control of grubs in Wisconsin is found in alfalfa, according to Fluke. June beetles do not like to lay their eggs in legume stands of any sort, and where alfalfa is fitted into the rotation, it has been observed that corn and grain suffer much less from grub damage.

Old pastures and meadows suffer the most damage and where these spots are badly infested with grubs, Fluke warned against plowing them up for corn or grain next season. He advised farmers to wait with the grub population has gone into a semi-dormant state and there is a better possibility of getting a crop.

"Disking, fertilizing and seeding to legumes of old pastures is another control method," Fluke said. "This encourages a strong, vigorous sod, which, even though it may be infested by large numbers of grubs, doesn't seem to be greatly damaged."

In Wisconsin, the worst grub areas are in the southwestern part of the state where there are a great number of permanent blue grass pastures.

The lesson, which will be conducted by Miss Gladys Stillman, nutrition specialist from the University of Wisconsin extension division, will be on cakes, and the leaders will bring any Christmas suggestions they may have so that ideas may be exchanged. Two leaders from each of the county home economics clubs will attend the session which will open at 9:30 in the morning and continue until about 3:30 in the afternoon.

Urges Use of Care in Handling Farm Animals

Madison.—(P)—George F. Cummings, state humane agent, mailed letters to 1,500 town chairmen in Wisconsin recently, urging more humane treatment of domestic animals.

"Cruel, careless practices in handling livestock are not only wrong, but very expensive," he said in his letter, adding that, "at least one-third of the bruises which may ruin part of an otherwise choice cut of meat occur on the farm."

Packing companies have said they could pay thousands of dollars more annually for livestock if farmers would avoid bruising farm animals, Cummings asserted.

He advised farmers to construct strong partitions when large and small animals are hauled in the same truck to protect the smaller stock from being trampled upon or bruised.

Schedule Series Of Meetings on State Dairying

State Speakers to Appear in Appleton on Dec. 20

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison.—A corps of 15 speakers from the state department of agriculture and markets will hold meetings in 45 communities during the week of December 20 to help Wisconsin farm folks "plan the future of Wisconsin dairying," Director Ralph E. Ammon of the department disclosed today.

County agents are cooperating in arranging the meetings, the department said. Speakers at the meetings, which Ammon called a "trained squadron," will present illustrations and speak on the history of dairy production and consumption, the problem of marketing Wisconsin dairy produce nationally, and proposed means to increase the return to the Wisconsin dairy producer.

The meetings will be held in the afternoons of Dec. 20, 21, and 22. Ballots will be taken on certain propositions affecting the dairying industry, it was said.

The December meetings will be the beginning of a series of 150 which are planned this winter.

Among those to be held the week of December 20 are a number in the northeastern Wisconsin area. Farm residents, the department advised, should attend that meeting which is most convenient for them.

The schedule thus far includes these dates and places:

Dec. 20: Sturgeon Bay, Fond du Lac, Omro, Gillett, Manitowoc, Appleton, Wittenburg, De Pere, Shawano and Port Washington.

Dec. 21: Algoma, Plymouth, Berlin, Lena, Valders, Brillion, Iola, Pulaski, Clintonville.

Dec. 22: Luxemburg, Sheboygan, Peshtigo, Denmark, Waupaca, Black Creek.

Farms in Outagamie County are Smaller Than Average in State

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison.—The average farm in the vicinity of Appleton is smaller than the average Wisconsin farm, but it is considerably more valuable per acre, state agricultural statisticians revealed today.

The average size of an Outagamie county farm is 92 acres, compared with a state average of 117 acres, while the value per acre, including buildings is about $78 compared with only $53.15 for the state as a whole, a new report showed today.

It was pointed out, however, that most farms in Wisconsin are small. The state has more 80 acre farms than of any other size. Farms in southwestern, western and central Wisconsin are larger than those in the rest of the state, it was revealed.

Counties with the smallest farms are those along Lake Michigan, and in the extreme northern part of the state.

Farm values are highest in the southeastern counties, in Waukesha $104 an acre, and Milwaukee $275 an acre, for example. In general the eastern counties have higher farm land values than any other part of the state. Lowest farm prices are in the central sandy plain of Wisconsin, in some of the more hilly western counties, and the less developed northern counties. In Adams county the average price of a farm with buildings is only $18 an acre; in Marquette $25, and in Sawyer and Burnett $24.

Averages for farm acreages and farm values per acre, with buildings, in the counties in the neighborhood of Appleton are given in the following table:

County	Size	Value
Manitowoc	93	$84
Calumet	95	80
Shawano	115	53
Waupaca	115	53
Winnebago	97	83
Brown	92	77

Farmers Can Cut Amount of Hand Labor on Beets

Study Indicates Extra Cultivations are of No Help

Small sugar beet fields can be operated economically, but often are not, according to P. E. McNall of the state college of agriculture in a bulletin to R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

McNall checked the cost of sugar beets on 52 Wisconsin farms and found that it varied from $34 to $135 per acre. He decided that two principal factors were responsible for the wide variation. One was difference in size of fields, and the other the amount of labor employed.

Only a small part of the saving on the larger fields was made possible by greater efficiency in carrying on field operations as a result of having long rows, McNall found. More important, he decided, was the much smaller amount of hand labor used on the large plantings. Farmers with more than four acres averaged 84 hours of man labor to the acre, while those with smaller fields averaged 156.

That the amount of hand labor may be held down, even on small fields, was shown by some growers who used as little as 60 hours for thinning, blocking, hoeing, pulling and topping. He states it is significant that those who used the larger amounts of hand labor secured no better yields than those who used smaller amounts.

Of 41 farmers who reported the number of cultivations used, the 43 who cultivated less than 4 times had yields of 9 tons per acre, while the 16 who cultivated 4 or more

Mahoney Elected Head of County Safety Council

Committees Named to Secure Date for Definite Program

R. W. Mahoney was elected chairman of the Outagamie County Safety Council, recently created by the county board as an official adjunct, at a meeting which started its organization last night at the courthouse. W. H. Webb was named vice chairman.

A committee composed of Joseph Doerflinger, Kimberly; Henry J. Van Straten, Shiocton; and M. F. Ziehm, Hortonville, was named to prepare by-laws which were discussed at length by the members. Another committee composed of Frank R. Appleton, John R. Riedl, and Les Smith, Kaukauna, was named to gather information on which the council can base its specific program.

Objectives of the organization also were discussed but no steps toward a definite program will be taken by the council until data compiled by the special committee is studied.

W. H. Webb was instructed to confer with members of the state legislature relative to passage of a law to give legal backing to the organization. The Outagamie County Safety Council is unique in its official standing with the county and at the present time there is no law which permits or forbids such an organization.

So a young man or young woman who believes cupid may need a prod or two before the year is out may call on Dr. Koch and he will furnish a sprig of mistletoe which may or may not do the trick.

Farm Loan Heads Talk at Meeting Of Stockholders

Status of Association in Land Bank System Discussed

Waupaca — The place the National Farm Loan association has in the federal land bank system was discussed at a special meeting of stockholders here Monday.

Speakers included Oscar L. Olson, secretary and treasurer of the Appleton, Chain O'Lakes, Iola, Outagamie and New Waushara associations; Milton H. Button, representative of the farm loan department of the land bank; Jack Keenan, representative of the public relations division of the Farm Credit administration; and Prof. Ike Hall of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

About 850 persons attended the meeting at which the financial standing of the association and the land bank, the economies achieved under the grouping plan, amount of real estate now in the hands of local associations, and farms to rent were shown by charts and discussed by the officials.

Under the group plan for the associations of this area, executive work is done in a joint office to effect greater economy and convenience to the borrowers. This eliminates the necessity of conducting a long distance correspondence with the Federal Land bank at St. Paul, Minn.

Design of Christmas Seal Suggests Campaign Slogan

"Protect Your Home From Tuberculosis" is the slogan of the 1939 Christmas seal campaign.

The design of the seal this year suggests the slogan. A mother and two young children in costumes of the Victorian age are shown lighting a candle in the window of their home. The lighted candle is indicative of the enlightenment on tuberculosis that has been kindled by the Christmas seals and of their mission of protecting every home from the dread disease.

Tuberculosis breaks up more homes than any other disease. If a mother or father is stricken, it means separation from the family if other members are to be protected from the threat of the disease.

Tuberculosis usually brings a serious economic problem. Each year the disease claims the lives of 40,000 persons between the ages of 15 and 40, the most productive years. Many of these victims are mothers and fathers who leave young orphaned children.

Christmas seals finance a year around program to control tuberculosis and by doing so, protect all homes from the disease.

Directors of the seal sale in Appleton today appealed to recipients of letters containing seals to send the money for the seals to Al Stogebauer at the First National bank.

Winter Moves in: Mercury Drops to 8 Above in City

Colder Temperatures Tonight, Is Weatherman's Warning

Winter settled securely on Appleton and vicinity today as the mercury found its lowest mark of the season and the weatherman saw indications of even colder temperatures tonight.

The 8 above reading recorded at 8 o'clock this morning at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company was the coldest thus far this winter and throughout the day the mercury remained in chilly environment. At 1 o'clock this afternoon, the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building showed 15 above.

Fair and colder tonight, increasing cloudiness and warmer tomorrow is the forecast for this area issued today by the Milwaukee bureau. A possibility of snow is seen for the northwest part of the state tomorrow.

The cold wave pushed temperatures below zero in northern Minnesota and northwestern Wisconsin today and crept southeastward toward New England and the Atlantic states, according to the Associated Press.

At Bemidji, Minn., the mercury dropped 36 degrees in 24 hours to 12 below zero. Wisconsin's lowest was two below at Park Falls. Light snow fell in upper Michigan and northern lower Michigan.

Bureaus reported temperatures would be higher tomorrow in the western and northern portions of the north central area while in the eastern they would be lower.

Attack on Tunisia Would Result in 'Grave Concern'

ish prime minister, since they presumably acted on orders from Berlin.

The Germans declined invitations to the important dinner, attended by ambassadors of Belgium, Brazil, France, Poland, the Soviet Union, and Italy, after reading advance copies of Chamberlain's speech.

It criticized a German press reference to former Premier Baldwin as a "guttersnipe" and, cautiously warned aggressors that "attempts at domination are never long successful."

The declarations came so late that time did not permit rearrangement of tables to close the gaps. There were nearly 50 German newspaper and embassy-absentees.

Many at the dinner banged table-tops with their fists and there was loud and long applause for Chamberlain who did not alter his prepared text, except to refer to Germany and Italy as "dictator" states rather than "authoritarian."

The usual two police constables kept an eye on the German embassy this morning to watch for any sign of popular demonstration, but a cold rain provided an even better curb for anti-Nazi exuberance. Scotland Yard said no special precautions were taken.

New Coolness Seen

British officials did not comment immediately, but unofficially there was speculation over a new coolness between Britain and Germany.

The laborer Daily Herald summed up an important section of opinion in an editorial that "it seems reasonable to the Nazis that they should be free to string together almost every known epithet of abuse in their attacks upon others."

"Yet at the same time they are so touchy that the most restrained expression of what everyone in the country feels is to them an intolerable insult."

Some saw lessening chances for the success of Dr. Schacht, who arrived today on a financial-trade mission.

FRANCE PLEASED

Paris — (P) — French sources said today that Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech before foreign correspondents in London had greatly strengthened Premier Daladier's hand against Italy.

It showed, they declared, that despite the lack of legal obligations Great Britain would back France to the limit if the latter were attacked by Italy in the Mediterranean.

(Chamberlain told the correspondents Britain's "relations with France are so close as to pass beyond mere legal obligations since they are founded on an identity of interest.")

Like the Italians, who have never communicated their demands for Tunisia in official form, the French continued to rely mainly on speeches and demonstrations to show how they felt about the question.

Since the official French protest to Rome over the demonstration in the Italian chamber of deputies Nov. 30, however, France has left little doubt about her position.

Daladier kept busy trying to hold his right-wing majority together for a test on the 1939 budget which goes before the chamber for debate tomorrow.

GERMANS SURPRISED

Berlin — (P) — Prime Minister Chamberlain's foreign policy address left German foreign officials surprised today but confident that it would not upset the appeasement course of Chamberlain and Chancellor Hitler.

Heads of foreign office departments met speedily, however, to make a further analysis.

The few morning papers to comment were more critical but did not mention that the German ambassador and German press representatives did not attend the London Foreign Press association dinner at which Chamberlain spoke. (They did not attend because of criticism of the German press and a reference to history which "teaches us that no form of government ever remains the same.")

Regents Approve Fund for Kiln To Make Experiments With Clay

Madison — (P) — Della F. Wilson, associate professor of art education at the University of Wisconsin, had financial backing today for her long cherished hope of developing a pottery industry in Wisconsin.

The board of regents has appropriated $700 for a kiln and other facilities to be used in large scale experiments with white, yellow, and red clay found in various parts of the state.

Miss Wilson captured the interest of the regents yesterday with a display of jars, dishes, vases and decorative animal figures. She produced them as a hobby, increasing an early conviction that many deposits of Wisconsin clay are suitable for industrial uses.

She said most of the materials she has used came from the vicinity of Waupun and Wisconsin Rapids. Ernest F. Bean, state geologist, assisted in obtaining the clays.

Although Miss Wilson emphasized the tourist season market for such articles, Regent George W. Mead, Wisconsin Rapids, pointed out that Wisconsin imports large quantities of white clay for use in manufacturing paper and that suitable and adequate quantities of the material may be available within the state.

Regents Clough Gates, Superior, and A. M. Miller, Little Chute, said there were large deposits of red clay in their districts and suggested that Miss Wilson's new laboratory make an attempt to utilize them.

Hollywood—There's hidden purpose in the recent trek to South America of our vacationing stars—and I wouldn't be at all surprised to learn that studios are paying the expenses of more than one. Hollywood's European markets are folding up. Herr Hitler and Il Duce have imposed such stringent censorship on American-made movies that Germany and Italy are closing markets. France, trying to build a producing industry of its own, discourages the exhibition of American pictures. And England, long considered our best foreign field, has enacted laws restricting our films in order to boost the showing of its own. South America—with an entertainment-loving population but few theatres—is the one gold mine Hollywood can develop for the future.

And what better way to create interest in Hollywood pictures than the personal visits of Hollywood's stars? Tyrone Power, Clark Gable, Annabella, Gloria Stuart, Jane Withers, Paul Muni, Spencer Tracy and the dozens of others who have gone or are planning to go to Rio and Buenos Aires are ambassadors of good will, pioneers who will leave a host of new theatres in their wake. The new consideration being shown by all major producers for the tastes of South America is a bid for admission fees in that country.

Hollywood's economic need dovetails with the United States government's avowed purpose of cementing a firm friendship with Latin America. Handled right, movies can do more to earn the friendship of South Americans than all the diplomats on earth.

The "Union Pacific" troupe is still trying to decide whether C. B. DeMille was gagging or merely remembering. This morning's work centered around an old-fashioned railway coach. "Prope" fitting an antique glass fire extinguisher in place turned to DeMille. "Does your memory go back far enough to include these?" he asked. "Remember those?" snorted C. B., rubbing his bald pate. "Why when I was a traveling actor, I was in a train wreck and one of those things well on my head and broke. I haven't had much hair since!"

ODD-FORMATION: Those colorful costumes worn by the Sonja Henie ice troupe on their exhibition tour were designed and manufactured by Sonja's brother, Leif. Bette Davis has always wanted to play Joan of Arc. Arguments about Paul Muni's nationality result from the fact that his birthplace, Lemberg, is now in Poland, but was in Austria at the time of his birth. There's a good reason for Humphrey Bogart's dislike for guns—when he was in his teens a playmate accidentally shot him through the arm with a target pistol.

In order to get an 800 foot feature picture, major studios usually shoot more than 100,000 feet of film. Grace Moore spends one day each week in bed to restore spent energy—and owe to the Oaf who telephones on that day. The pretty who works as stand-in for Heather Angel is Barbara Denny—daughter of Reginald Denny. Don't feel too sorry for actors who are Olivia de Havilland is a top-notch trap drummer—and a tempting "snare" for any man. Those attractive Xmas cords of Mr. and Mrs.

James Gagney are made from one of his own original woodcuts. Superstitiously silly, but Ginger Rogers won't broadcast unless she's wearing a charm bracelet given her after her first radio appearance. And Guy Kibbee always carries a horseshoe in his golf bag. Jean Hersholt has a composite reel showing him in cut-outs from every one of his more than 500 pictures. The Byron Stevens who plays occasional movie bits is Barbara Stanwyck's younger brother.

A few days ago, a party of Mexican officials, headed by Secretary of State Ignacio Garcia Telles, visited Warner Brothers, where "Juarez" is in production. The studio publicity director, almost swooning with joy, summoned all the still cameramen on the lot and ordered them to "get busy." And for more than an hour, production languished while the cast of "Juarez" posed with the distinguished guests, who proved more than cooperative. With the last flash-light bulb used, Secretary Telles graciously expressed his thanks. "We will treasure these photographs you have so kindly made as souvenirs of our visit," said he. "But I must warn you not to give any of them to newspapers. There are diplomatic reasons." The publicity man hasn't committed suicide yet.

Stopped in on the "Twelve Crowded Hours" set and chatted with Lucille Ball. "I thought you were supposed to be vacationing this month," I observed. She grimaced. "You're not at all observant," she said. "I am vacationing. They let me sit down between scenes."

HUNTING THE HARE What? No Rabbits? By Cal Johnson

IT PROBABLY won't change any hunter's pleasure in the slightest degree when he is out after cotton tails or jack rabbits to know that neither of these speedy fellows is a true rabbit. Both are hares. In fact, there are no rabbits native to the American continent. Rabbits which are common to Europe are more prolific than our hares and have quite different habits. The rabbit of Europe lives in a burrow, while the hare has his home in a bush, thicket, or depression. Hares feed chiefly at night, while rabbits do their eating in the day-time. It is likely you will slow up the cotton tail a bit to call him by his scientific name, Lepus sylvaticus, or stop the jack rabbit to give him his title of Lepus campestris.

Many Rifles Suitable
What will add to the hare hunter's pleasure is the right rifle for his sport. A large number of rifles are practical for shooting hares for the main requirements are accuracy and high velocity with the accompanying flat trajectory. Fans who are devoted to bolt rifles have the various rifles of the .22 Magnum class, such as the .22 Hornet, .220 Swift, .22 Hi-Power, together with the .25 Remington, .25-35, .250-300, .257 Roberts, .270, and .30-06. Some of the latter are more powerful than necessary but can be used if the hunter has no vermin rifle.

Those who prefer a lever type of rifle have a choice of the .24 Hi-Power, .25-20, .250-300, and the .25-35. The Winchester 219 Zipper, Model 64, is ideal for hares. It is slightly smaller than a standard .22 but has plenty of power. There is a certainty that the Zipper will continue to increase in popularity for it is one of the finest medium-power lever rifles ever designed. The 26-inch barrel makes the model better for the hunter on foot than for the rider. The Zipper is also a handy gun for crows, hawks, coyotes, and other predatory creatures. If the distance is not too great, it will bring down very sizable game.

With any of the rifles mentioned above the hunter should get good sport in hunting hares. They are handy for working with hounds and useful also to the ordinary stroller who is out by himself hoping for a cotton tail to sprink up without range. The chief objective in picking a rifle for hare shooting is to have one that is easy to handle and has sufficient power. Anyone of the weapons mentioned above should fill the bill.

Nova Will Trade Blows With Farr

Californian Not Concerned About Possible Bout With Louis

New York —(P)— Lou Nova, the handsome young Californian who will trade buffets with Tommy Farr, the willing Welsh heavyweight Friday night, wishes people would stop talking about a fight with Joe Louis, because "I have to beat that Farr and that's a real job."

Ever since he stopped the durable Gunnar Barlund, there has been talk of matching him with Louis in an outdoor show next summer.

Barlund had knocked Nova down and, as the Gunnar never was classed as a superior puncher, there was some doubt about Lou's ability to fight a tough customer like Farr over a 15-round route.

Resembles Tunney
"Well, I don't like to alibi," said Lou, "but I don't feel so good for that fight. I didn't have much time to train and I was sick after I got here."

Nova is a lot like Tunney. He is quiet, immensely serious about his business and just a touch standoffish with the boys who gather around him where he trains to poke his muscles and speculate on his ability.

Against Barlund his main stock in trade was a very good straight left which he kept jamming into the Barlund kisser. Around the fifth round the same weapon opened a cut over Barlund's eye and in the seventh Arthur Donovan, the referee, stopped the fight.

Yankees Named Outstanding Sport Aggregation for 1938

NEW YORK —(P)—By a margin as decisive as their American league and World series triumph, the New York Yankees were named today as the outstanding sports team for 1938.

Joe McCarthy's bombers who created a new all-time record by whipping the Chicago Cubs, four games to none, for their third successive world baseball championship, were named at the top of the heap by 61 of the 67 sports editors participating in the eighth annual Associated Press poll. Three other sports editors picked the Yankees for the No. 2 spot and three for No. 3, thus giving the baseball title holders a total of 192 points out of a possible 201. Points were awarded on the basis of three for No. 1 ranking, two for No. 2 and one for No. 3.

Football gained the next three places with Texas Christian's unbeaten Horned Frogs as runner-up to the Yankees with 45 points. Close behind came Notre Dame and Duke. Notre Dame's high finish came as a surprise in view of its defeat by Southern California on Dec. 3 but could be explained partly by the fact a considerable number of ballots were cast prior to that date.

Navy's oarsmen, Poughkeepsie champions, landed in fifth place, just a jump ahead of the U. S. Davis cup tennis team.

All told 24 teams in 11 sports figured in the balloting with football far out in front with eight.

Summary of the vote:

Team	First	Total
New York Yankees, baseball	61	192
Texas Christian, football	2	45
Notre Dame, football	1	43
Duke, football	2	23
Navy, rowing	0	22
U. S. Davis cup team, tennis	0	20 1/2
Chicago Blackhawks, hockey	0	6
Harvard, rowing	0	6
Stanford, basketball	0	4 1/2

Four points: Tennessee, football.
Three points: Edmonton grays, basketball.

Two points each: Carnegie Tech, football; Southern California, track; U. S. Walker cup team, golf; Texas Tech, football; Kiltan and Vopel, bike riders; Seattle badminton team.

One point each: Don Eudge and Gene Mako, tennis; Oklahoma A. and M., wrestling; Temple, basketball; Southern Methodist, football; British Walker cup team, golf; Southern California mile relay; pre-holder; Green Bay Packers, pro football.

Badger Boxers in Finals Tomorrow

Bob Carnes, Appleton. Among Elimination Bout Winners

Madison —(P)— Tomorrow night, University of Wisconsin boxing fans will get a glimpse of future Badger mill swingers when the annual "tournament of contenders" gets under way.

Yesterday 15 elimination bouts were held and two technical knockouts were scored. In the 155 pound class, Arden Malzohn, of Wisconsin Rapids, was awarded his bout with Laverne Fets, of Tilleda, when the latter failed to come out for the second round. Dave Machiel, of Madison, dropped Harold Pernot, of Madison, in 50 seconds of the first round of the top heavyweight battle.

There will be further elimination battles this afternoon in seven weight classes.

Omar Crocker, of Aurora, and Woody Swannett, of Wisconsin Rapids, have agreed to a three round exhibition match, which will be one of Thursday night's outstanding bouts. Crocker, varsity 135 pounder last year, piled up seven straight victories, scoring five of them with first round K.O's.

The "football special" attraction, between John (Blackie) O'Brien, varsity guard and Jimmy Martin, Wauwatosa halfback on the 1937 grid squad, should likewise be a thriller.

Among other winners were Gene Rankin, of Superior, 145 pound; Bob Carnes, of Appleton, who defeated Joseph Shifter, of La Crosse, in a 155 pound fight, and Robert Ellis, of Wisconsin Rapids, 165 pounder.

With Daley and Eland getting hot they ran the score up to 34 to 12 as the third quarter ended. Daley was high scorer with five field goals and three gift shots for 13 points. He was followed by Eland who had six field goals for a total of 12 points. Goerlinger and Billmeyer were the best scorers for the losers with four points each.

107 Horses Named for Santa Anita Handicap

Los Angeles —(P)— Headed by such prominent youngsters as the turf as Porter's Mite, Xalpa Clown, Time Alone and other leading two-year-olds of 1938, 107 nominees were announced today for the fifth running of the $50,000 added Santa Anita derby next Feb. 22.

The list equals the number nominated for the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, and 13 of the soon-to-be three-year-olds were named for both events in the coming campaign at Santa Anita.

The derby distance remains at a mile and one-eighth — the same route Maxwell Howard's Stagehand traveled to win last February.

Special Meet Precedes $10,000 Open at Miami

Miami, Fla. —(P)— Big-time golfers whiled away the few hours that separated them from the $10,000 jackpot of the Miami open tournament with an older-younger exhibition match today.

Gene Sarazen, listed from Sarasota, Fla., was captain of the oldsters by virtue of being over 31. Players 30 and less made up the youngsters' team, captained by Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill. A similar match at Augusta recently was won by the younger group 3 to 2.

While only 10 two-men teams took part in today's preliminary exhibition, 175 players were ready to tee off tomorrow in the $10,000 open in an effort to beat Sammy Sneed of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., to top money. Sneed is the defending titleholder.

U.S.C. Gridders Return To Work for Bowl Game

Los Angeles —(P)— Starting today Southern California's football team will begin to get back into practice stride for the Rose Bowl game Jan. 2 with Duke.

Coach Howard Jones gave the Trojans a week off after closing the regular season with a slashing 13-0 victory over Notre Dame. The boys reported for work with more ideas of fun than serious effort.

"That'll soon wear off. They will be ready for Duke," said Jones. An aside recalled that the week prior to the Notre Dame clash, the Trojans appeared cocky and paid little heed to serious practice.

Chorus Will Sing Christmas Carols Throughout City

250 Voices, Mostly Children, to Entertain Residents

A chorus of 250 voices, about 20 of them adults and the rest children, will come carolling right to the doorstep of Appleton homes next week.

The Christmas project, directed by Mrs. Hazel F. Bannister, county WPA recreational director, is being sponsored by the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce. A Christmas float depicting the scene in the manger at Bethlehem following Christ's birth will proceed through the city's residential district accompanied by the carollers each night from Monday to Saturday of next week.

The carollers will present their entertainment in a different ward each night, starting with the Third ward on Monday evening at 6:45. About six stops are listed for each ward and the carollers expect to be out somewhat over an hour each evening.

Characters on the float will be the Virgin Mary, the infant Jesus, Joseph, The Three Wise Men, and several shepherds. The float will be illuminated with vari-colored lights. A town crier will lead the procession.

Theodore Slater and Helen Shebliske will be the two soloists in the chorus of carollers, Mrs. Bannister announced yesterday. The routes through the various wards

Council Divides Tax Rate to Meet 2 County Requests

Adopts $33 Per $1,000 For Third Ward; $35 For Other Four

New London — A split tax rate, $35 per thousand for the four wards in Waupaca county, and $33 per thousand for the third ward in Outagamie county, was set by the common council with the adoption of the 1939 city budget at an adjourned meeting last night.

The $35 rate remains the same as this year while the third ward levy represents a decrease of $2 per thousand in that section. The two rates were deemed advisable because of the great differences in county tax requirements, a $4,600 increase from Waupaca county and a decrease of $1,600 from Outagamie county. The general county increase amounted to $3,049 with a total levy of $55,368, including old age assistance.

A budget of $251,691 was adopted, providing a small increase of $1,780 over this year. A drop of $37,222 in the assessed valuation, leaving $3,219 less to be raised by taxation, was overcome by an estimated increase in income of $5,034. Assessable property is listed at $4,619,659 for 1939. Estimated income is set at $91,955 compared to $86,931 of this year. The greatest increases are anticipated from liquor taxes, about $3,300 more than the $2,000 of this year, and $2,650 in accounts receivable.

Levy of $139,772 Total amount to be raised by taxation is $139,772. Of this, $31,600 will be derived from the third ward in Outagamie county at the $33 rate and $12,172 from the remainder of the city at the $35 rate. Total revenue including other income is estimated at $251,737, leaving a margin of $46 in the annual budget.

From an impromptu report by City Treasurer L. M. Wright last night, it was estimated the city will have a surplus of about $8,000 in the city treasury at the close of the year. Several months ago it appeared about $14,000 might remain. With the 1939 budget slashed to the bone, as Mayor E. W. Wendlandt remarked to the council, the greatest single departmental increase was in poor relief where $3,260 more than last year was appropriated. The amount for actual relief was increased $2,000 to $25,000 and an additional $1,260 added for special relief. With the $2,000 salaries of the office, the relief figure reaches $28,260 for 1939.

Less for Streets In the slashing operations the city street department took the greatest trimming and a reduction of $2,902 was realized. The allotted sum was reduced from $24,400 to $21,498. Roadways were cut $1,000 to $4,500, sidewalks were cut in half to $500, city team costs were reduced $552 from $850, bridges, culverts and repairs were reduced more than half from $1,200 to $500.

Appropriations to various funds were cut out, decreasing the outlays several thousand dollars. With $2,000 now in the cemetery fund the annual allotment of $1,000 was omitted. The city's industrial bond was cut in half to $1,000 for next year, and the contingent fund which received $2,000 this year will be forgotten. The cemetery fund is to be used to provide a water supply at Floral Hill cemetery when the occasion permits.

The city recreation program came in for an increased appropriation again this year. The city plans to spend about $1,494 more than in 1937 when the city recreation program was just getting underway. The allotment for next year is $2,494, $529 more than for 1938. Little increase in expenses is foreseen at the Hatten park pool with the exception of a new hot water tank and heater for $170.

Funds for Equipment Playground equipment and materials will be added in the amount of $130 in 1939, including softballs, baseballs, bats, ribbons and awards and handicraft materials. Completion of the tennis courts and the purchase of lawn mowers and other equipment for upkeep of the parks and grounds make up most of the increased cost.

City outlays were increased $1,030 to a total of $8,830 for 1939. Funds for use at the Hatten WPA park project were stepped up from $500 to $2,000, an extra $500 was set aside for painting the city hall roof and $180 was appropriated for new city flags. The amount for sewers was cut in half to $1,000 and catch

Youngsters at New London Will be Guests at Variety Of Christmas Season Parties

New London — A "glorious" 17-day vacation for the yuletide season will be ushered in by New London school children with individual classroom parties at the various schools Friday afternoon. In the wake of the closing of school will follow a week of big parties conducted for their benefit by various adult organizations.

For pupils of all New London Public schools and the Most Precious Blood parochial school vacation will begin Saturday, Dec. 17, and continue until Tuesday morning, Jan. 3. Pupils of the Emanuel Lutheran parochial school are preparing for their big annual Christmas eve program and classes will continue until Dec. 23 to permit daily rehearsals.

Every classroom in the public schools will boast a decorated Christmas tree on Friday and each party will consist of an exchange of gifts and a program consisting of playlets, songs, readings, poems and recitations with practically every pupil taking part.

Some grades have been making small gifts for their parents, some of the lower groups have been making regular excursions to downtown toylands, and all have been rehearsing diligently for their programs. Parents will be invited to many.

At the Catholic school class programs also will be held and the second issue of the school paper is planned. The grade and high school choirs are rehearsing regularly with special music for the Christmas services. The erection of Christmas trees and exchange of gifts will be held at the Emanuel Lutheran school on Friday, Dec. 23.

Public Program Headlining the school Christmas programs will be the Christmas basin needs were reduced from $700 to $500.

While the board of education asked for an increase of $2,165 in the school budget for a total of $75,280, that amount was reduced by $1,800 by eliminating funds asked for repair and alteration of buildings. The repair item of $1,200 was removed entirely while the alteration request was cut in half, leaving the school budget only $365 above this year. The only major increase was $1,485 for teachers' salaries.

An increase of $400 was applied to the health department, $350 more for cleaning sewers and drains and $50 more for refuse and garbage disposal. These two items were granted $900 and $850, respectively. The fire department was allowed an increase of $321 for more new hose, nozzle and pump equipment and the police department was granted $50 more to purchase a typewriter desk, several card files and a new supply of printing forms. Salaries in all city departments remained the same.

The city's bond debt will be retired another $11,000 with a decrease of $275 on the interest for a total cost of $15,950. The cost of elections for next year will be one-half or $200 less. Fire and truck insurance was increased to $1,100 from $600.

Two items which showed very little change were the library with a budget of $8,652, or $11 more, and the museum with $693.

Asks for Sewers In considering the budget Alderman Harry Emans took up his fight for new sewers in the Third ward and asked that appropriations be made for relief in that area. With little present knowledge of the extent or cost of improvements necessary, it was suggested that the council await completion of the city engineer's survey and when determined the necessary sum may be taken from the surplus of the general fund.

Rebuilding the old bridge on County Trunk S in the Hatten yard was argued but it was decided finally on engineer's reports given the mayor that the structure could be safely repaired for another several years at a cost not to exceed the reduced $500 placed in the budget. Iron for the repairs will be purchased at junk prices from the salvage of the old Pearl street bridge, according to plans discussed last night. The bridge will be cut down with torches to make way for the new structure.

G. F. Meedy of the Stevens Point WPA office appeared before the council to explain the recent projects the city has approved. Now he plans to get specifications to arrange for the construction of a shelter house at the Hatten Recreation park.

Steel Production Shows Resistance To Season Letdown

Holiday Slump Is Expected to be Relatively Moderate

Cleveland—Steel production is offering strong resistance to the quieting influence of the approaching year-end, according to magazine Steel.

New business is slower, the result of the season as well as the forward commitments made in some products a number of weeks ago. Nevertheless, the additional letdown in operations prior to the usual holiday slump is expected to be relatively moderate.

Schedules in most districts were unchanged last week, the national rate of steel output holding at 61 per cent. This compares with 27 per cent a year ago.

Expect Severe Test
Automobile builders, operating at the best rate in 16 months, have placed some fill-in lots of flat-rolled steel at full market prices. With sustained assemblies scheduled into January, sheet and strip quotations will be given a more severe test next month, when automotive orders for larger tonnage are expected.

Annual track material buying by railroads is starting to appear, and purchases during ensuing months are likely to be well ahead of totals a year ago. Norfolk & Western has placed 3,000 tons. Union Pacific's 1939 requirements of rails and fastenings are estimated at 80,000 to 100,000 tons. This past year no new rails were bought by the latter.

Enhance Prospects
Recent improvement in railroad earnings enhance equipment buying prospects, but further substantial gains will be necessary to finance comprehensive programs of freight car and locomotive purchasing.

Automobile assemblies last week rose several thousand units to 100,705 cars and trucks, highest since August, 1937. The increase resulted largely from further expansion in Ford's operations. With retail buying sustained and stocks materially smaller than a year ago, the seasonal tapering in production early next quarter is expected to be relatively moderate.

Production Expands
Steel ingot production expanded more than seasonally in November. Gain over October was 14.6 per cent, largest for the month in history. Total production was 3,572,220 tons, against 3,117,934 tons in October and 2,154,365 tons in November, 1937. Increase over the latter month was 65.7 per cent and was the first this year compared with the corresponding 1937 period. Except for 1936, November production was the largest for the month since 1928, partly a reflection of the fall introduction of new automobile models.

Steelmaking last week dropped 4 points to 43 per cent at Pittsburgh and 5.5 points to 66.5 per cent at Cleveland, but this was offset by gains of 3 points to 59.5 per cent at Chicago, 4 points to 80 per cent at New England and 2 points to 86 per cent at Detroit. Other districts were unchanged, including eastern Pennsylvania at 37, Wheeling at 62, Buffalo at 49, Birmingham and Cincinnati at 75, St. Louis at 51.5 and Youngstown at 65.

Surprise Party Given At Hilbert Residence

Hilbert — High school students surprised Betty and Edgar Burkhardt at their home Sunday evening. The out-of-town guest was Miss Betty Schmitt of Appleton. A picnic lunch was served and games were played.

Cyril Schwalenberg, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schwalenberg, was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital at Appleton Sunday afternoon. He immediately submitted to an operation for appendicitis. He was taken ill Saturday afternoon. T. L. Dolansky shipped two carloads of cows last week. One was shipped to Joe Kahn of Newark, N. J. Victor Dix went in charge of the car. The other carload was shipped to Mount Holly, N. J., to Charles Ginsberg. Erhart Alberts was in charge of the car.

Mrs. Peter Dix returned home Saturday night from Waupun, where she was called a week ago to assist with a patient who was taken to Wisconsin General hospital at Madison.

Relatives here received word Sunday that a son was born Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Dekarske, Chilton. Mrs. Dekarske was the former Eulalia Suttner of Hilbert.

Prepare County Equipment for Annual Battle With Snow on Highways

Snow Removal, Ice Prevention One of Major Operations of County Highway Department

BY L. J. DERUS

Workmen of the Outagamie county highway department might well be called the "unsung heroes of the night," at least during the winter months.

The motorist driving along the highway seldom thinks of the amount of planning and work that makes his progress unimpeded by snow and ice. And yet this job is one of the major operations of the county highway department. If the road does happen to be drifted in and the motorist hampered, usually his first thought is why the county hasn't its equipment going to have the road open.

Every winter there are stories of heroism that blaze their way in headlines after severe snow storms. In many cases county workmen, working through the cold nights, play their part in these heroic acts by opening roads to get the principles to their destination. Seldom are they mentioned in the stories of heroism.

Nevertheless, every winter the workmen are ready for call at all hours of the night. They start out with their trucks or caterpillar tractors equipped with huge snowplows whenever a snowstorm reaches such proportions that traffic might be hindered. Directing this work is Frank R. Appleton, highway commissioner for the last nine years, and the county highway department. Details of the program are under supervision of John Ritger, superintendent of this highway patrolmen.

21 Trucks
Snow removal equipment of the county includes 21 trucks, 9 tractors and 8 power graders. This equipment is stationed at various points in the county so that no time is lost in getting the machines into actual operation on the roads.

Tractors are stationed at Hortonville, Bear Creek, Seymour, Black Creek and at the main garage near Appleton. Trucks are stationed at the main garage Seymour, Hortonville, Black Creek, New London, Dale, Shiocton, Freedom and Kaukauna, Freedom, Black Creek, Bear Creek and the main garage. Some of the trucks are equipped with the large v-type plows while others carry 1-way plows for lighter work.

Inspection tours during the winter months are made to find places where drifts are most likely to occur and the following winter these points are protected with snow fence. Workmen now are setting up the last of about 35 miles of snow fence.

When equipment is called into use, federal, state and county trunk roads are the first to be cleared of snow. Later towns may use the equipment, provided they carry the expense. The county board this fall appropriated $25,000 for snow removal purposes. However, in severe winters this amount is not enough to carry the burden of snow removal and ice prevention costs.

Last Winter Costs
The snow removal costs on the state trunk system last winter amounted to $29,220.11, and this amount was repaid the county. The cost of snow removal on the county trunk system was $32,200.15.

Even though the winter is a mild one, there is added work for the department in ice prevention work. Mild winters mean rain and melting snow which freeze and create a hazardous condition on the roads. Trucks must be manned and sand spread at the hills and curves.

Always looking ahead to increase the efficiency of the department, the highway committee ordered construction of two auxiliary garages, one at Hortonville and the other at Seymour. The Hortonville garage was completed last year at a cost of $7,559.07 and the Seymour garage at a cost of $9,228.53. The county also maintains auxiliary garages at Black Creek and Bear Creek. During the winter county equipment is kept at designated places in the towns where the department has no buildings.

Outagamie county's snow removal record has been cited as one of the best in the state.

Dim Lights for Safety

Outagamie county highway workmen are busy getting the last of the county's huge trucks and plows ready for the winter's grind. Two of the county's huge trucks with v-type plows ready for the battle with old man winter are shown at left above. At right above Miles Wincensten, Shiocton, mechanic, is shown in the act of removing the head preparatory to grinding the valves in one of the caterpillar tractors which will later be attached to a plow. One of the two new county garages completed last year as auxiliary units to the main county garage is shown at the left. The garage is at Hortonville. A similar building is located at Seymour. W. E. A. Proposes 9-Point Program For Legislation

Suggestions Designed to Improve Public Education

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—A 9-point program of educational legislation sponsored by the Wisconsin Education association with the approval of the state superintendent of public instruction and Wisconsin city and county school superintendents was disclosed today by O. H. Plenzke, secretary of the association.

All of the suggestions which will be proposed, the association said, are designed to improve public education, it was explained.

The program will include:
1. Revision of tuition laws upon an actual cost basis after deductions of state and federal aids. Because many communities have been unable to collect from their neighbors, it will be proposed that the state levy and collect tuition and distribute it to the proper localities.

State Certificates
2. State certification of teachers by the state superintendent of public instruction.

3. Appointment of county superintendents (who are now elected by popular vote, by an elective county board or committee).

4. Improvement of rural education on the elementary level through "practical reorganization and the creation of larger school units". It will also be proposed that a sum be appropriated to make a study of the rural school problem under the supervision of the state superintendent.

5. Fiscal independence of school boards.
6. Legalization of high school transportation.
7. Strengthening of the teachers' tenure act.
8. Repeal of the semi-annual payment law, twice postponed, which changed the priority of school funds from tax receipts, in its entirety.
9. Increased state and federal school aids to relieve the burden of education now on the general property taxpayer.

SERVICES AT DALE

Kaukauna Cagers To Invade Menasha For League Game

Bluejays to Face Second Conference Opponents Friday Night

Menasha — The Bluejays of Menasha High school will face their second conference test Friday night when the Kaukauna High school cagers will invade the new high school gymnasium. By virtue of their 27 to 12 victory over Clintonville last week, the Bluejays are tied for the conference lead.

The Kaws have split even in two Northeastern Wisconsin conference tilts. They lost their opener to Neenah High school by a 27 to 20 margin and then trounced West De Pere 28 to 18. However, the Kaukauna team was trounced by St. Mary's of the Fox Valley Catholic conference 26 to 19. In that game the Kaws failed to score a field goal until the final quarter.

In that game though, the Kaws were way off their stride and the Bluejays can expect a much closer battle. Drills this week have been aimed at polishing the Bluejay offense and improving work on rebounds. The Jays started a week later than other teams in the conference and have played only two games so far this season. They were swamped by Oshkosh in the season's opening game.

Show Scoring Strength
For the Kaws, Alger at center is an outstanding player and high scorer. Bloch also has been a big scorer at forward while Giordana of football fame holds down a regular guard post.

For the Bluejays Anderson and Landskron have been the top scorers in the first two games. Landskron has scored consistently in both tilts while Anderson collected all of his 11 points against Clintonville. Coach Calder has substituted freely in both games, using 12 men at Oshkosh and 13 at Clintonville.

The chief problem for the Jays is to locate a guard to work in with the four veterans and to develop some relief players, particularly for Block who tires too rapidly to play through an entire game. If at all possible in the Kaukauna game, Coach Calder will continue his practice of frequent substitutions.

Tickets in Demand For Lecture to be Given at Menasha

Neenah—The Twin City Emergency society's finance committee, Mrs. J. H. Kimberly, chairman, has announced that reservations for the lecture of Boake Carter, former radio commentator and present newspaper columnist, planned for Saturday, Jan. 21, in the Menasha High school auditorium, will be received by Mrs. J. Fredrick Hunt at 3414 or Mrs. Kimberly at 1320.

The committee took this action because many reservations have been received already and good seats are being requested rapidly although ticket sales will not start until the first of the year. The society did not anticipate the voluntary requests so early and to give everyone an equal opportunity, reservations will be received any time.

The Emergency society voted to sponsor the lecture by Boake Carter at its Dec. 5 meeting. Proceeds from the lecture will be used in the society's welfare activities. Chief among its many projects this year was the purchase of a free frackture bed.

Neenah Fireman First To Try Ice Boating

Neenah—Ed Stelow, Neenah fireman and ice boating enthusiast, was the first to venture out on Lake Winnebago this season with his ice boat. He reported that the ice is smooth but that there is open water about a mile from shore.

More than 200 boys and girls will take part in the program. The Sunday afternoon concert started as an experiment last winter. They were received so favorably by the public that it was decided to continue them.

The two high school bands will present part of the program, and two of their numbers will have Christmas themes. The rest will be regular concert selections. The second part of the program will be by the cantata in which the choir and orchestra, under the direction of Lester Loehre, will take part. All numbers will be Christmas selections.

Education Center Is Proposed for Church Diocese

Field Representative Outlines Plan at Menasha Luncheon

Menasha — Possibilities of establishing a Cooperative Educational center within the diocese of Fond du Lac that would involve a strong program of leadership training were discussed by 22 representatives of the department of religious education and Miss Charlotte C. Tompkins, New York City, field representative for the National Council's department of Religious Education at a luncheon meeting in the parish house of St. Thomas Episcopal church.

"Such a center is especially necessary today," Miss Tompkins stated "in order to develop Christian attitudes of mind that will result in Christian living. We have neglected to give the children within our churches a feeling of responsibility of the place they have in the church. We waited until they were young men and women and it was too late. In any program of education, effects of that education are not noticeable until 10 years afterwards."

3-Way Cooperation
"The life of the whole parish, of any church group, are channels for education," Miss Tompkins stated. "Parent-education, relation of the church school to the church itself and the relation of every group within the parish to the church is part of the plan of such a center. The center should be established, would be for special work in the field of religious education, and would involve a 3-way cooperation, the parish department, the diocesan department and the national department."

Miss Tomkins, who came to Menasha from Chicago Wednesday consulted with various parish leaders at the meeting yesterday, heard reports and offered advice and suggestions prior to presenting the outline of the plan for the center. The diocese of Fond du Lac was one of the first dioceses to write to the National Council's department for information as to this special ser-

Snow and Ice
III--FIERCE BLIZZARDS

It was a January day in the year 1880, and people in certain parts of the United States were thinking of the spring-like weather they were having in the midst of winter. A "January thaw" is common, but in a great region stretching from the Dakotas down to Texas, the weather was more mild than usual. In some parts the temperature was 70 degrees above zero.

Then came a change, a terrible change. A cold wind which sent the mercury diving toward the bottom of the thermometer. Hour passed hour, and each hour was colder than the one before. The next day, it was zero in most places, and in the Dakotas it was 40 degrees below!

That is the story of the temperature change, but it is only part of what happened. Along with the bitter and furious wind there came a mass of falling snow. Billions of snowflakes tumbling from the dark clouds were caught by the wind and blown fiercely against the faces of farmers in the fields, and of children on their way home from school.

"Ice dust as fine as flour" whipped against them as they struggled against the blizzard. Some stumbled into snowdrifts which were yards deep; many lost their way, and wandered about until they could walk no more.

The blizzard was one of the worst in history. A river in Texas which never had been known to freeze was covered with ice a foot thick. Farmers who tried to bring in cattle or sheep from the fields not only lost their livestock but in some cases could not get back to shelter. Two hundred and thirty-five persons in Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas and Texas died in the blizzard.

The eastern section of the United States did not suffer at that time, but was swept by a storm two months later. The eastern storm took place from March 11 to 14, and swept over large sections of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and the New England States. It is known by three names--The Great March Blizzard, the New York Blizzard and the Town Meeting Storm. The last of these names was given in New Hampshire where thousands of persons were planning to go to town meeting but could not do so because of the weather.

During the Great March Blizzard, huge snowdrifts piled up in many large cities. There were drifts from 12 to 15 feet deep in New York City, also in New Haven, Conn. In farming parts the snowdrifts were even deeper, some being reported with a depth of from 25 to 30 feet, which means they rose higher than an ordinary two-story house.

leading stocks in other groups get a boost out of the rut of the last two weeks.

Transactions expanded materially on the buying spurts and approximately 2,000,000 shares, the largest in more than a month.

Gains, ranging to around 2 points in the most active issues, were expanded in late trading.

Corporate bonds also moved forward for the third session and principal commodities looked up a bit for a change.

Optimistic calculations of 1939 business prospects, rated by brokers the dominant force behind the buying, were savored by expectations the forthcoming session of congress would be asked to approve a large-scale defense spending program.

Aside from aircrafts, such shares as Bethlehem and Du Pont were favored by speculators on United States armament prospects, much in the Wall Street spotlight now.

On the curb, gains of a point or more showed at one time in American Cyanamid "B", Aluminum of America, American Gas and Electric, Gulf Oil, Bell Aircraft and Newmont.

Corn futures ran up in the Chicago pit for net gains of 1 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel. Wheat ended 1 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel higher. Cotton futures in late trading were 60 to 85 cents a bale improving over the British pound at mid-afternoon the British pound was $4.74, up 1/2 of a cent. The French franc was .061 of a cent up at 2.62 1/2 cents.

Church Elder Dies

Evansville, Ind.—(AP)—His zeal to save records of his congregation brought death to Cecil McKeynolds, 51-year-old elder of the Presbyterian church at Cynthiana, as the church was destroyed by fire yesterday.

The church was ignited after the funeral was fired for a missionary meeting. McKeynolds and his brother-in-law, Ross Garrison of Cynthiana, rushed in to carry out the records and other property. A chimney collapsed. Garrison was not hurt but McKeynolds was killed.

The Rev. Henry E. Neff, minister, blamed a defective chimney. He made no estimate of the loss.

Belittles Badger Claims of Being a Great Dairy State

Chicago—(AP)—Governor-elect W. Lee O'Daniel sang the praises of Texas as a cheese state while he saw the sights of Chicago yesterday.

O'Daniel was here to confer with President J. L. Kraft of a cheese corporation.

The Texas told Kraft that Texas was a better cheese state than Wisconsin, citing climate, soil and shipping facilities among other talking points.

He was reminded that Julius P. Heil, who was elected Republican governor of Wisconsin on an industrial expansion program, also was in Chicago last night, to which he responded. "Governor Heil can't change the climate of Wisconsin."

Urges Fight for Highway Funds

Madison—(AP)—Thomas Davlin, chairman of the Wisconsin Highway commission, urged the Associated Wisconsin Contractors last night to unite in a fight against diversion of state highway funds to other purposes.

"The motorists are paying for an adequate highway department and deserve it," Davlin told the convention. "If attempts are made to divert highway funds for other uses, you gentlemen should organize to combat it."

Murray D. Van Wagoner of Lansing, chairman of the Michigan State Highway commission and president of the American Road Builders association, advised the group to push the passage of an amendment to the state constitution which would make diversion of highway funds impossible.

Charles Upham of Washington, D. C., engineer-director of the Road Builders' association, declared the time had come to begin work on a national highway system, stating, "we've got to have a highway transportation program worked out that we can save any other economic problems."

In an earlier address Ben Johnson of Oshkosh, a former contractor and representative of the industry in the trade practices department, asserted that the state highway construction code should be amended to allow greater power to the Associated Wisconsin Contractors in holding hearings on violations and in working out penalties.

Testifies Woman Admitted Slaying

St. Joseph, Mich.—(AP)—A police sergeant testified today at the murder trial of Mrs. Fern Patricia Dull, accused slayer of Attorney William Holbrook, that Mrs. Dull said "I killed him" and "He had it coming to him" a few minutes after Holbrook was shot to death.

Sergeant Eugene Murphy said that Mrs. Dull also told him, "I had to eat dirt. Now some one else is going to eat dirt."

Holbrook was killed in front of the Benton Harbor police station Oct. 17. The defense seeks to prove that Mrs. Dull, Holbrook's office secretary and his sweetheart, fired in self-defense after Holbrook struck her.

Sergeant Murphy said Mrs. Dull and Holbrook visited the Benton Harbor police station, "both very angry," a few minutes before the shooting occurred.

While Holbrook registered a complaint that Mrs. Dull was "bothering" him and explained that he wanted to go to a hotel and get some rest, the sergeant testified, Mrs. Dull stood outside the room shouting "It's a lie."

Holbrook, he said, left the police station, while he detained Mrs. Dull for two minutes.

Before the trial opened this morning, Mrs. Dull exchanged greetings with her mother, Mrs. Mary Baker, of Kimmell, Ind., and her two children, Gloria, 15, and Lester, 17.

HOW TO WIN
1. Read the ads in this Christmas "Gift Selector" carefully. In the two open spaces (top parts) of the illustrated cartoon figures above—write, type or print what you think the little figure and Santa are saying to each other (not over fifteen words in each space). A new cartoon picture will appear daily in the space above until Christmas.
2. The conversation must contain the name of an advertiser whose ad appears here, and something about any gift that he advertises. Only ads in this "Gift Selector" and the names of the advertisers are considered.
3. Yes, it is necessary to clip out the cartoon illustration to fill in the words you wish to write in the two open spaces (balloons). Do not color or decorate. The cleverness and originality in the way you word the conversation is what counts.
4. The first two daily prizes are in the form of $1 gift orders on advertisers herein, and theatre tickets to the other five winners.
5. Yes, you can submit as many entries daily as you wish but each must be written in the space of a separate cartoon picture. Send same to Judges of Christmas "Gift Selector" c/o Post-Crescent.

Three Educators Authorized to Attend National Meeting

An audit of the accounts for constructing and finishing the new senior high school and remodeling of Morgan school was ordered by the board of education at Morgan school last night. Homer Benton was named chairman of a committee which will award the contract to a local firm.

In urging the audit, C. K. Boyer explained the audit was not an attempt to uncover any discrepancies.
He said it was a matter of "good business" to have an unbiased analysis of the construction expenditures and would make available a clear and accurate picture of the financial side of the two projects.

Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, A. G. Oosterhout, principal of Roosevelt Junior High school, and Clement Ketchum, physics teacher at the high school, were authorized to attend the national meeting of school administrators at Cleveland
Feb. 25 to March 2.

Given Temporary Leave
Kenneth Schilling, music instructor, was granted a semester leave of absence to attend school and Miss Gerlach was engaged as a substitute.

It was reported the safety film Handle Bar Hazards had been shown in all public and parochial schools of Appleton and several requests had been received for copies of the film. Guy G. Barlow, principal of Wilson Junior High school,

R. J. Swanson, Wilson school instructor who did the photographic work, and Sergeant Carl Radtke of the police department were commended for their work in producing the motion picture.

The matter of additional time for public inspection of the new high school was referred to Superintendent
Rohan and H. H. Helble, high school principal. The suggestion for more "open house" hours was made by Fred F. Wettengel in a letter to the common council which was referred to the school board.
